Sorry, wrong number!

Jim Bradley was so anxious to get to his new Belleville office, 405 Main St., last week that he inadvertently gave the wrong phone number for the Romulus Roman newspaper. The correct number is 941-1275. Jim apologizes to the good-natured lady who was getting calls about news stories last week.

Having a "banner" year

Also in Florida's Disney World is Belleville High School's 72-member Marching Band which was invited to play in the land of cartoon characters. Led by Director Dennis Miller, the band left Saturday and unfurled a brand new banner for the occasion. Displaying the banner last Friday before departure are sophomore Dave Pavelka and senior K.C. McClure.

Officials want new county formed

Super sewer divides area

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

"We may have lost the battle — but we haven't lost the war."

That was the summary Romulus Mayor James Stewart came up with Friday after 22 local communities had been rebuffed Thursday in their efforts to get the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to give local representation on the supersewer project.

Friday's meeting of local area elected officials at Romulus City Hall set up a committee to find out answers to all the group's questions so they can chart the direction their efforts should take.

All local communities are involved in the "Supersewer" project, the name given to the Huron Valley, Downriver Sewage and Rouge Valley System drain that is proposed to run from Oakland County, along Hannan Road, all the way to Flat Rock.

The Supersewer had previously been under the control of the Wayne County Road Commission until the County Commissioners, without advance notice, transferred control from that group and set up the new Public Works Board which has no local representatives on it.

"No one is on the Public Works Board from the areas through which the supersewer goes," said Stewart, an outspoken critic of the County Commissioners, who is getting strong backing from all elected officials affected by the drain project.

After hearing that the new Public Works Board had five Detroiters on the seven-man board, and none from the affected areas, local officials met at Romulus and drafted a resolution strongly objecting to the new board's make-up. Then they held a press conference in Romulus last Wednesday which was attended by representatives from the 22 communities. Westland Mayor Tom Taylor, a former County Commissioner from 1973-75, outlined the situation and alternatives to the attending representatives of neighboring cities and townships.

"You mayors and supervisors are not going to be confronted with a more significant problem this year than the one we are here today to discuss," he began.

"We all know that as the veins of our body carry blood back to our heart, so too, do the sewer systems of our communities — like the water systems — control the life, the very existence, of our communities."

Taylor then gave the example of Wash. D.C. which he said had a moratorium placed on it for almost two years in which all new development stopped. Projects underway were halted and millions of dollars were lost by developers and by the communities involved, he said.

"I'm not saying that this will happen here — but it could. We have seen articles in the local papers describing problems with our sewer systems. Who will make the decision to improve the system — or stop new connections if the County Commissioners plan is not reversed?"

"Not you!" Not local elected officials who deal with similar problems every day. That decision, if the County Commissioners' plan is not stopped will be made by the Drain Commissioner, one of the Road Commissioners and FIVE Wayne County Commissioners. You and I — whose communities asked, and then listed problems of the water making process," Taylor continued.

"Do we have cause to be alarmed?" he asked, and then listed problems of the water board and its high rates, SEMTA's transportation plan and the County Sheriff's patrol of townships.

He finished by saying: "Ladies and gentlemen, I was a County Commissioner and I tell you that there is no way — no way — that that Board is set up to operate a sewer system!"

The following day — last Thursday — local officials went to Detroit and asked to be heard by the Wayne County Commissioners. Some Detroit Commissioners asked that they be refused permission to speak, but Commissioner Tom Presnell of Westland, supported by Ed Harris of Romulus requested that Taylor be allowed to speak.

Wayne County Commission Chairman John Barr received a lot of flak from local officials about lack of representation on the Public Works Board. However, Barr dished out some of his own in the two-hour meeting last week. Listening skeptically to Barr at the head table are:

Joins neighboring communities

Huron Township nixes Concorde landings

Romulus got more help this week when Huron Township, its bordering community to the south, passed a resolution objecting to the landing of the SST aircraft landing at Metropolitan Airport.

Romulus City Council passed a resolution three weeks ago and was joined last week by Westland City Council in strenuously objecting to the Concorde supersonic transports using Metro Airport.

Huron's resolution read: A spokesman for the Wayne County Road Commission made a statement to the media which, if adopted by the Commission for the Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport would allow utilization of the airport for the SST Aircraft.

"The Township of Huron is of the understanding that the SST is excessively noisy and emits a far greater amount of fumes than do any of the conventional aircrafts currently utilizing the Detroit Airport.

"It is the belief of the Township Board that the SST would be hazardous to the health, safety and welfare of the citizens living within the Township of Huron.

"Therefore, be it resolved by the Township of Huron Board that it does herewith set forth its unalterable objection to the utilization of the Detroit Metropolitan Airport by any SST Aircraft."

The resolution closed by stating: "Be it further resolved by the Township Board of Township of Huron that the Wayne County Road Commission be and are herewith notified that the Township of Huron stands willing and ready to take necessary court action to prevent said airport from accepting SST Aircraft."

Wayne County Road Commission officials have since announced that they do not plan to have any of the supersonic transports use Metro Airport.

A resident of Romulus called the Romulus Roman last week and said she lives in the flight pattern in the northeast section of the city.

"It gets so bad that we can't even sit outside in the backyard and carry on a conversation," she said. "We had a group gathered in the yard recently and it was so noisy we had to go inside to be able to hear each other." The woman added that airplanes flying over cause constant disruption of television reception and the windows, even shake when planes fly over.

Supervisor John Puskar

Huron Township Supervisor John Puskar and the Board of Trustees have joined Romulus and Westland in putting up a "Not Wanted" sign for the supersonic transports landing at Metropolitan Airport. They all agree the Concorde is too noisy and too many fumes for the safety of citizens.

Belleville lake claims first drowning victim

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville Lake claimed its first victim Sunday evening when a 29-year-old Westland man drowned in Belleville Lake while fishing with his uncle.

Roger Ellerholz, 648 Marie, Westland, was operating a 12 foot aluminum boat when waves apparently caused the water craft to flip over.

Police officials believe the boat may have struck Ellerholz on the head when it turned over, causing him to drown immediately. His uncle, Alfred Ellerholz, 44, 25077 Hanover, Dearborn Heights, was fishing from the back of the boat when it capsized.

He was able to cling to the overturned boat and managed to climb on top of it until help arrived ten minutes later. Citizens, aided by four Van Buren police officers, were able to rescue the older Ellerholz and some of his fishing equipment when they towed him and his boat to shore.

Involved in the rescue were Patrolmen Randy Hughes, Jan Jay, David Ramsey and Sgt. Leonard Bourdeau.

"We got the call at 6:21 p.m. and the men were dispatched immediately," Van Buren Police Chief John Willet said. "The four police officers were able to save some of the gear and tow Ellerholz' boat to Gunther's Marina at Edison Drive, just off East Huron River Dr."

"We understand he was supposed to be a strong swimmer, but apparently was knocked unconscious when the boat flipped over," a detective said.

They said large waves from passing boats apparently caused the boat to capsize but that there was no indication of negligence on the part of the other boat operators.

Food available for 1,800

Families still sought for WIC program

Free groceries, up to $25 worth every month, still are waiting in Western Wayne County for about 1,800 more participants who are wanted to qualify for the federally funded nutritious food program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC), according to Wayne County Department of Health.

More than 3,000 outcounty mothers or children already are enrolled in this program of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, administered by the County Health Department, which provides free food in excess of any public aid that applicants already may be receiving.

The program is meant to ensure a proper diet for eligible pregnant or nursing women and children up to age 5 in Wayne County outside Detroit, Highland Park and Hamtramck. Residents in these cities are served by the FOCUS:HOPE Food Prescription Program, or the Detroit WIC program operating only in the southwest section of the city.

Participants in the county WIC program are issued coupons which are worth $25 in exchange for selected foods at most chain stores and independent neighborhood markets at a variety of outcounty locations.

The foods authorized under the program are high nutrient supplementary items which were chosen for their exceptional protein, iron and calcium content. They include milk, cheese, eggs, fruit juices, cereals and baby formula.

To qualify for the program, participants must be certified eligible by a health professional. Public health nurses and nutritionists for this purpose are available by appointment at five Health Department sites throughout the county.

Belleville Couple sponsor American Indian child, 6

A Belleville couple is seeing that one youngster has clothing, school supplies, personal books and spending money as part of the Save the Children program.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCloskey of Fenster Avenue, are sponsoring a 6-year-old American Indian girl, named Sharon. She is a member of the Navajo Tribe.

The sponsorship permits the youngster to take part in school activities, said a spokesman for the Save the Children Federation, adding that the average Indian youth leaves school before the eighth grade for the lack of such educational bare essentials.

Part of the sponsorship contribution also is pooled with funds, donated by other sponsors, to help members of the tribe achieve self-help projects of their own choosing. Indian men, women and young people the labor for such projects as building health clinics, libraries and community centers.

To combat the language barrier, considered a major reason why Indian youngsters lag two years behind their non-Indian classmates in school, the federation often helps tribal community secure supplies and school materials for kindergartners where English is taught to 5-year-olds before they enter first grade.

Founded in 1932, Save the Children Federation aids children their families and communities in Appalachia, on American Indian reservations, inner cities, in among Chicanos and southern Blacks, and in many countries overseas.

An individual, school or group interested in helping a child can write Save the Children Federation, Wilton Road, Dept. P, Westport, Conn. 06880.

The federation is a member of the International Union of Child Welfare, the American Council of Voluntary Agencies for Foreign Service and the International Council of Voluntary Agencies.

WCMTCA has Folmar as head

Romulus City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar was elected Chairman of the Wayne County Municipal and Township Clerks Association (WCMTCA) at the group's quarterly meeting last week.

The articulate Romulus City Clerk was elated at the honor and said it was a tribute not only to him, but to the city as well.

"I'm very honored to be voted the new chairman of this group, and I will work hard to show the members' trust in me is deserved," he said. "But I feel this also speaks well for the City of Romulus and the things we've tried to institute and carry out here."

John Jay Hubbard of Dearborn was elected vice-president of WCMTCA, while Richard Solak was named secretary and Clarice Sass elected treasurer.

Founded in 1969, the association is made up of 37 communities which include townships, villages and cities. Folmar is the sixth president to lead the group.

Preceding him were Burt Alexander, Bob McLachlan, Laura Mapes, John Flodin of Canton and Rose Legg.

According to their charter, the purpose of WCMTCA is self-education, exchanging of ideas, improvement of the clerk's office and to lobby for proper legislation.

During the course of the meeting, members took time to honor the memory of Eileen Damask, former deputy clerk of Westland and Laura Mapes, former city clerk of Allen Park, who both passed away recently.

Wayne City Clerk Geneva Ford, who was treasurer of WCMTCA the

'...this speaks well for the city...'

Upon returning home, he served as assistant director of urban renewal for Romulus Township from 1968 to 1970.

Folmar ran for clerk when Romulus became a city in 1970 and was elected. He was re-elected in 1973, and in 1975 was unopposed when he was elected for his third consecutive term.

In 1976, he was elected vice-chairman of WCMTCA before being voted to head the group last week.

Folmar has many ideas how to get the group involved.

"I'd like to see the clerk's association inaugurate new services," he said. "We need to publicize what a clerk's role is and their significance to the communities they serve."

"An Education Committee is one thing we could start. It could put together formalized materials or a course of study for new clerks to learn their duties a lot faster. With new clerks being elected all the time, this would serve a very useful function."

"Also, there should be some kind of ongoing training for all clerks to provide continuing education."

past year, said she was satisfied not to be an officer this coming year, preferring to have a little more time for other pursuits.

Folmar, 35, and his wife, Celeste, have two boys, Winston Todd, 5, and Marcus Bradley, 3.

After graduating from Romulus High School in 1959, he attended Ferris State College in Big Rapids, from 1959-63, graduating with a business administration degree.

In 1963 he entered the naval reserves and served six months active duty before returning home. He was employed by a Detroit architectural firm the next two years before entering the army in 1966.

Folmar served in the quartermaster corps, and in 1968 was stationed in Weisbaden, Germany with the 8th Army, 11th Quartermaster's Paratrooper Division.

City eyes vendors' restriction

The City of Romulus is going to take action to regulate ice cream vendors, especially the huge vans which serve children through a side window.

A 5-year-old boy recently was struck and injured when he ran out from behind a large van-type ice cream vending truck, an incident that has brought cries to ban the big vehicles.

Judy Frederick of Romulus says there's no doubt the vehicles should be banned.

"Those huge ice cream vans are too noisy and much too dangerous," she told The Romulus Roman recently. "I think they should be banned. They play their music so loud that children can't hear if traffic is coming."

Mrs. Frederick, who was nearby

'They play their music so loud that children can't hear if traffic is coming.'

when the small boy was hit by a car, was furious about the incident.

"The vendor had no more respect than to go right on selling ice cream on our street after the boy had been rushed to the hospital," she claimed. "They think I'm some kind of nut at City Hall, I guess, but I don't care. I'm going to fight this thing until I get those big vans banned."

Mrs. Frederick said she has been to City Hall many times, but her pleas have fallen on deaf ears.

"Oh, they say they're going to do something, but they don't. They said last fall they were going to move on this matter, but here it is late spring already and they still haven't banned the dangerous, obnoxious vehicles," she added.

However, City Clerk Leonard Folmar says the city is moving on regulating the hours and noise of the big ice cream vending vans.

"We are using the ordinance Detroit has passed as a pattern for ours," he said. "I'm presenting it to the City Council as soon I can get it ready."

Mrs. Frederick said the City of Taylor has banned the large vehicles and would like to see Romulus do the same.

Last June, Folmar wrote the Dumbo Ice Cream Co. of Livonia, asking their voluntary compliance of restricting their hours from 12 to 9 p.m., stop properly at the curb when selling ice cream; and to equip their vehicles with safety warning devices.

Although Folmar didn't say how well the voluntary compliance worked, he is planning on drafting an ordinance for the City Council to adopt for the safety of the city's children.

In his letter to Dumbo Ice Cream last June, Folmar said: "At the regular City Council meeting of June 8, 1976, it was brought to said body's attention that vendors of ice cream were causing somewhat of a problem throughout the city by the irregular hours they cruise the various subdivisions, and in some cases create very hazardous conditions with the children running to and from their vehicles, in that they took no precaution to locate the vehicle at the curb and had no warning safety devices to alert other vehicular traffic that they were stopping."

"As I am sure you are aware, the vending of ice cream can create very serious problems in a community and the officials of the City of Romulus are gravely concerned with the potential danger this activity could cause.

"The City Council is nonetheless sensitive to the commercial enterprise you conduct and to the service your activities provides the community, and it is this sensitivity, and with a spirit of cooperation, that this letter is directed."

Folmar in the letter also said that some communities have taken very stringent precautions by way of adopting ordinances restricting, if not completely eliminating, ice cream vendors.

Now it looks as though Romulus, like those other cities, is on the verge of taking "stringent measures" to ensure the safety of its youngsters.

Folmar said the ice cream ordinance should be ready to adopt soon if the City Council gives its approval.

Heritage Day committee

This group of Romulus senior citizens gathered to plan Heritage Day for the upcoming Michigan Week, May 14-21. Senior citizens will be honored on Heritage Day and these interested seniors are planning "their" day. In-

Who's the oldest resident?

Romulus Senior Citizens have been scheduled to hold their Michigan Week program on Community Pride Day, May 14.

And one of the most important things the City of Romulus wants to know is who is the oldest citizen in Romulus. There will be special honors given to the oldest resident of the western Wayne County community.

Entries can be mailed to Romulus

Senior Citizen, care of the Recreation Department, 36515 Bibbins St., Romulus 48174.

They also are sponsoring a writing contest for all ages on "Why I'm Proud to live in Romulus". Entries of 500 words or less can be sent to the Recreation Department. Judging will be done by a committee composed of Senior Citizens.

Further plans for the day include booths displaying craft items such as ceramics, macrame, leather and home-sewn goods. The seniors also will provide musical entertainment and hold a square dance demonstration.

The Romulus Fire Department will be present for the afternoon with a display and demonstration of the fire fighting equipment.

Activities for the day are scheduled from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Further information can be obtained by calling the City Hall at 941-0666.

"I was in Harlan, Ky., right after the flood as soon as I could after the waters went down. It is a pitiful sight to see, all the people's homes messed up and some torn up and washed away."

Mrs. Dorothy Hatcher of Romulus was describing her feelings after a recent trip to the flood-ravaged areas of Kentucky. She and her husband, Ralph, along with Florence Klein of Helping Hand Thrift Shop in Romulus are gathering needy items to take to the flood victims.

Most urgently needed are children's clothing, from infant to 18-year-old, boys and girls. Cleaning utensils, blankets, sheets, pillow cases, towels, soap, cleaning items, mattresses, home furnishings, food and just about every other kind of item people use.

"Furniture, food and just about all other things are just ruined from the flood waters," said Mrs. Hatcher, who has travelled to help friends in the stricken area of Kentucky. "The food prices have about doubled what they are here since the flood."

"For instance, a 3-pound can of coffee there is $14 and a few cents. I know the people can't afford the food they need. That is why they need food as well as clothes, furniture and many other items."

Mrs. Hatcher said she thought because the Helping Hand Thrift Shop gave their food supply to her to take to the flood victims, it should keep half the food donated to the Hatchers.

She was referring to the emergency supply that the Romulus

Helping Hand group keeps on hand to help local people in need.

The Romulus Community Schools are joining in on the drive to help. Chairman for the Romulus schools is Richard Goode, principal of Merriman Elementary School. A drop-off point has been set up at 35257 Goddard Road, Romulus. Those bringing items are requested to call first.

Some of the first schools to get involved were North and South Junior High Schools, Gordonier and Corey Elementary Schools and Romulus High School.

Mrs. Florence Klein of the Helping Hand pointed out that most of the people hit by the flood in Kentucky do not have the money to replace their losses.

"Almost everything they had was either washed away, or ruined by the water and thick mud that washed over everything," she said. "Now they must make their homes liveable by cleaning and scrubbing and replacing almost everything they owned."

Mrs. Klein said several phones had been set up to take calls and anything local residents can do will be appreciated.

For a drop-off, or further information, call either 729-1316, 722-5568, 326-2413 or 941-5323.

Seminar to help widowed persons

Facing life alone can be a harrowing experience for a widowed person.

That's why there will be a seminar for all widowed men and women at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Van Buren Township Hall, 46425 Tyler Road.

It will provide an opportunity for widowed persons of all ages to meet with ministers, social service agencies, professional associations, fraternal and service clubs and interested community representatives to meet and discuss resources available in Western Wayne County.

"After a funeral, widowed persons often are left alone in altered life circumstances for which there has been virtually no preparation," said Peggy Price, who has helped establish pilot programs serving the needs of widowed men and women in other communities.

"Recent experience has demonstrated that a 'mutual help' program involving persons who have made a satisfactory adjustment a unique opportunity to serve the newly bereaved."

Belleville, Van Buren and Sumpster residents can call Mary Elizabeth Nichols at the Van Buren Township Hall at 699-2001 for further information. Romulus and Huron Township residents can call Lois Ellwart at the Family and Neighborhood Services at 941-9590.

Under proposed code

Consumers have say in health decisions

(This is the third in a series of columns explaining the 445-page Public Health Code, a document unique in Michigan's legislative history. The code—House Bill 4070—concerns a broad range of public and private health care needs. It was drafted over 16 months, at open meetings in which 250 consumer and health provider groups participated. When passed, the bill will have far-reaching effects on Michigan citizens.)

Increasingly knowledgeable, the consumer now has an important voice in health care decision making.

The proposed new Public Health Code recognizes this. Now being considered by the State Legislature, the code placed the public in the forefront from the day that the first open planning meeting was held.

When the governor appointed a 12-member commission to study Michigan's health laws, he included several representative citizens, the director of a community action agency, a union employee, a county commissioner, an Upper Peninsula newspaper editor, and a consumer representative. These people worked closely with medical, nursing and other professionals who also served on the commission. The commission also collaborated hand-in-glove with a bipartisan committee of the State Legislature on the development of the comprehensive health law.

Literally scores of meetings were held to review different sections of the code while it was being drafted. The code includes health care areas affecting all Michigan residents, such as local health services, diseases and disabilities, substance abuse, personal health service, anatomical gifts, environmental health, the health occupations, and facilities and agencies providing treatment.

Code planners were sensitive to the concerns of both public and health care providers. Like careful carpenters, the code committees built a basic structure in which both health professionals and the public can live together agreeably.

By its very nature, the Public Health Code concerns public health and safety. Here are some ways in which the consumer benefits:

— The code recognizes that some public health programs are most effective when delivered locally, and that the needs of citizens vary in different communities.

— The code sets up a new system of state cost-sharing for local health programs so there will be equity in the availability, accessibility and acceptability of public health services no matter where you live in Michigan.

— The code encourages uniformity among health professional licensure boards to increase the protection offered consumers by licensure and registration.

— A Health Occupations Council, an advisory body that will work with the state directors of Public Health and Licensing and Regulation, will seat a consumer majority, along with one representative from each licensed profession.

Metro Airport 'hospital' set any emergency

In case of an emergency

injured in an accident or natural disaster, with staff from nearby Wayne County General Hospital. It was developed from a federal surplus "MASH"-type field hospital that was secured for $25 under auspices of the County Board of Commissioners and is valued at $20,000.

Wayne County officials have opened an emergency medical center at Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus for use in the event of an accident or natural disaster.

The facility, located in the main passenger terminal, is equipped to provide immediate medical care, including surgery, for some 200 persons.

In an emergency, the center would be staffed by physicians from nearby Wayne County General Hospital (WCGH). Other WCGH staff would supplement the medically-trained airport fire-rescue personnel. The hospital is located in Westland at Michigan Avenue and Merriman, about five miles north of the airport.

The center was presented on behalf of the County Board of Commissioners to the County Road Commission by John Barr, board chairman.

"At a time when minutes mean lives, this medical facility would meet the immediate medical needs of the injured and prepare them for transfer to Wayne County General or other hospitals," Barr said.

Thomas P. O'Rourke, commission managing director, accepted custody of the facility for the Road Commission, which operates the airport.

"There never has been a serious accident involving a commercial airliner at Metropolitan Airport, but it is reassuring to know this capability is available," O'Rourke commented.

The medical center is located on the lower level of the L.C. Smith (South) Terminal building.

The facility was developed from a fully-equipped packaged disaster hospital obtained as federal surplus through the Wayne County Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP), an agency of the county board.

Its equipment includes a surgical room, cots, stretchers, medical examining tables and a wide assortment of supplies for treating injuries.

The hospital package cost the county $25 and would cost about $20,000 to duplicate, according to George Young, county OEP director.

Only three other airports in the nation—Kennedy at New York, O'Hare at Chicago and the Minneapolis airport—have comparable medical facilities, Young added.

"The FAA thinks this is great," he commented.

At the direction of the Board of Commissioners, Young's office has made available similar surplus packaged disaster hospital equipment to local communities in the county. Equipment has been placed in 18 communities so far, Young said.

MaBell officials predict 1.2 million calls Sunday

Officials of Michigan Bell are predicting that state residents will make more than 1.2 million long distance telephone calls this Sunday, the annual observance of Mother's Day.

Because Mother's Day is traditionally one of the busiest holidays of the year for the phone company—second only to Christmas—the company is urging customers to call during the less busy hours.

Charles F. Derr, Michigan Bell assistant vice-president of network and operator services, said calls placed in the early morning, all afternoon or early evening have the best chance of going right through on Mother's Day.

"This means that callers will be better off phoning before 9 a.m. or between 1 and 8 p.m. on Sunday," Derr said.

Across the country the telephone industry rearranges circuits generally used for heavy business day calling to make available a maximum number of transmission paths for Mother's Day calls, Derr said.

Since so many persons will be using long distance circuits for extended conversations, some calls may not go through on the first attempt. If that happens, he suggested that callers wait a few minutes instead of immediately trying to place the call again.

Some may want to phone on Saturday to avoid the Mother's Day congestion.

"And to save time and money, callers can dial their own calls direct. No matter what the hour—direct dial rates are lower than operator-assisted rates," Derr added.

About 750,000 long distance Mother's Day calls will be made within the state and 450,000 will be made to places outside Michigan—including calls to overseas countries, he estimated. About 90 percent of these calls will be dialed direct by customers.

Customers calling other states can take advantage of direct dialed night and weekend rates which are 60 percent lower than day rates. These rates are in effect from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. daily, all day Saturday and on Sunday until 5 p.m.

Direct dialed long distance calls within Michigan are discounted 30 percent from 5 p.m. to 7 a.m. Monday through Friday, all day Saturday and on Sunday until 5 p.m.

Suburban secession from Wayne County may be answer

A controversy is raging in western Wayne County over the unannounced transfer of control over 'Super Sewer' to the Detroit controlled, County Public Works Board.

'Super Sewer' (Huron Valley, Downriver Sewage, and Rouge Valley System drain) had previously been under the control of the Wayne County Road Commission.

Without notice, the road commission transferred control of the 'Super Sewer' to the County Public Works Board, a seven man group with no representatives from this area sitting on it.

This transfer of control, to the Detroit dominated public works board could spell the beginning of Detroit Mayor, Coleman Young's grab for complete control over the economic development of western Wayne County.

With Detroit already in control of water, transportation, and the Wayne County Sheriffs department, only the sewer systems of our area remain still under local control.

The suburban concerns over the effects of a sewer system controlled by Detroit, were summed up by Westland's Mayor Tom Taylor.

"Washington D.C., after gaining control of the surrounding suburban sewer systems, placed a moratorium on connections to the system and effectively shut down all new development in that area for almost two years. Projects underway were halted and millions of dollars were lost by developers, and communities involved," Taylor said.

"Who will make the decisions to improve the system — or stop new connections, if the County Commissioners plan is not reversed," Taylor asked.

The answer is obvious. The vote to transfer control of the 'Super Sewer' to the Detroit controlled Public works board, was 14 to 10. It is worth note that the city of Detroit, and Coleman Young claim 14 loyal County Commissioners among their ranks, all dancing to Coleman's tune.

Since events of the past have indicated that there is little chance for the germination of an independent thought among Coleman's 14 commissioners, it would be safe to assume that anything in the County that 14 votes can buy, Coleman will have.

We feel that the concerns expressed by Mayor Taylor, James Stewart, Harold Stein, Terrell LeCesne, John Puskar and all those other officials, elected to represent the citizens of this area, are valid.

There is little doubt that if Detroit were given the opportunity to economically black mail the suburbs, they would not hesitate to do so. Detroit should not be given that opportunity.

Since it has already been conceded, by John Barr, Chairman of the Wayne County Commissioners, that the Detroit controlled commissioners are in the drivers seat with their majority of them on the board, "the only way to get the 'Super Sewer' is to work with Detroit." But there may be another way.

Following the heated discussions between local officials and the County Board of Commissioners, one official was heard to remark that maybe the suburbs should band together and form a new County, more responsive to their needs, and leave Wayne County for Coleman Young.

A very interesting idea that could go a long way toward solving almost all of the suburbs problems.

Detroit is drowning in their own political swamp and the suburbs have been burdened with that city's lifeline.

It is reasonable and proper that the suburbs make the effort to save Detroit, but when we are also going down for the third time, it is time to let that rope slip.

By BOB AMEEN

Sports fans' reward

Almost everyone at one time or another, usually of the male species, has longed to become a star athlete in the professional ranks.

The lure of huge salaries, travel throughout the United States, even abroad, succeeds in attracting many a youngster into rigorous training in his favorite sport at a very early age.

In most cases, athletic prowess shows up in grade school possibly in track, basketball, baseball, football or hockey. From this point on in time, the "star" has become hooked into continually proving how much better he is than everyone else.

Once into high school, he has to prove himself all over again and continue doing it every year. Then, it's on to college where the same vicious cycle has to be repeated year after year until graduation.

By now, these athletic standouts have been scouted for several years and many are offered fantastic yearly salaries to join a professional team. A few who quit college before graduating and who are athletes of the first order likewise enter pro ranks via the same route.

Competing on a professional level, the incoming neophyte once more must prove how good he is, but this time the stakes are high and he finds he must be able to play under the most extreme kinds of pressure.

Within a short time, the star who has been a tremendous athletic performer in grade school, high school and college, has either made it or has flunked out and been discarded along the wayside.

What happens now? The adulation and loyalty of the star's fans soon elevate him to a sort of national hero. With appearances on television and radio talk shows, personal appearances at public functions and stories attesting to his athletic abilities appearing in newspapers and magazines across the nation.

Now, a tragic sort of irony creeps into the picture. At varying stages in a professional athlete's career, he is offered sums of money that oftentimes make his salary as a member of the team seem small by comparison.

So, this sports hero repays his dedicated, loving followers by appearing in television commercials and magazine and newspaper ads touting some product or other, usually associated with his particular sport.

Sports fans, being no more intelligent than any other segment of the general populace, flock to the department stores and sports shops, buying golf clubs, tennis shoes, T-shirts with the star's name imprinted, shotguns, slacks and just about everything imaginable.

Very few of these fans stop to realize that their idol is, in effect, taking them for a ride on one devil of a rollercoaster! The very fans, who "made" so-and-so into a big-name star by pouring out hard-earned money to buy tickets to watch him compete, shell out even more greenbacks for some product supposedly used by their hero.

Once embarked upon hauling in this easy money for commercials and ads endorsing a specific manufacturer's products, there is no turning back for the pro star. His greed for more and more money amounts to nothing more than a vicious exploitation of those fans who made him what he is!

Even after retirement from active competition, the money keeps rolling in. Passage of years has made his name a household word and his endorsement of a product virtually guarantees its profitable acceptance by a gullible public.

Some name stars, although definitely in the minority, value their self respect and place proper ethics and morality above any love of this kind of easy money. For this, they are to be commended!

But, do they receive any recognition or testimonial for playing it fair and square? No! Ironically, it is those same stars who reap huge endorsement contracts who are time and time again glorified by the press, radio and television.

Perhaps, the time will come when professional sports organizations will include a provision into athletic contracts that will specifically forbid player endorsement of any manufactured product.

For the sake of those who love sports, let's hope so!

On the brighter side

Who said 'you can't go back?

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

There's something fascinating about going back to your childhood days and tracing your beginnings.

When our Managing Editor told us we were returning the Inkster Ledger-Star newspaper to Inkster this week, I immediately recalled my early days in that city.

I was born Sept. 16, 1930 in the back bedroom of a gray frame home that stands on the southeast corner of Trowbridge and Sylvia streets in Inkster. From that humble beginning, three blocks south of Michigan Ave. and two blocks west of John Daly Rd. I lived in five different homes in Inkster before leaving at the age of 11 to dwell in Dearborn.

Sunday afternoon my wife and I cruised back over the dusty streets of my youth as I showed her where her husband had his "roots", as Mr. Haley would say. I pointed out the homes in which I lived and played and laughed and cried.

I'd like you to use your imagination and come with us as I show you where I spent my boyhood days.

It all started here on this corner of Trowbridge and Sylvia. Boy, it's dusty isn't it?—the roads are about the same as years ago. See that cemetery across the side street? It's just a small fenced-in one, but it's been there as long as I can remember.

As we cruise slowly down Trowbridge to John Daly, we bounce over the railroad tracks to Princeton St. See the J & B Party store on the southeast corner? We bought penny candy there by the fistful when I was a kid. That tunnel under the porch is where we'd chase each other for hours in our leisure time.

There was a men's baseball diamond on the northwest corner where I remember my father, "Chuck" Bradley, playing with the Inkster Merchants. Did you know my late father? He was a strong-throwing, left-handed pitcher with a round-house curve. "Irv" Coleman was his catcher — and a good one. We lived on Princeton, across from the diamond, just a block west of John Daly until I was four.

I remember Red Minnick in centerfield, and even a left-handed hitting third baseman by the last name of Watson. I watched these men play from the time I was five until I turned 11.

"Luke" Cabanaw, just a young teenager, became a "star" as I recall, even though he played against much older men. I think a fella by the name of Ted Block played left field. He was a large man, who had a brief try-out in the minor leagues.

When I was four, we moved to Wiethoff Court, a one-block street that runs south off Michigan Ave., about three blocks west of John Daly Rd. See that big-story white home with full-width front porch?

Health Beat

"Alcohol is patient.."

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

The meeting was held in the chambers of 29th District Judge John C. Seiler of Wayne. Sitting with us were Judge Seiler, Bob Kowalski, and John Lee. Kowalski is Director of the Court Probation Department, and Lee is an alcoholism therapist employed by the PCHA Annapolis Hospital.

The purpose of the interview was to talk about a new program in alcoholism treatment initiated by Kowalski and Lee and supported by Judge Seiler — it's called the 'Awareness Program'.

Kowalski explained that the approach to dealing with the problems of alcohol abuse in the 17 to 21 age group must be different from the techniques used in the traditional programs such as the one at the Annapolis Hospital.

Kowalski, a psychologist and teacher at Madonna College, said, "We've established this program as a school of first resort. Clearly, not all of the younger people brought to court for alcohol abuse are confirmed alcoholics. Rather, most of these young people are victims of the peer pressure syndrome — a situation which at least implicitly suggests that drinking and getting high is macho."

Lee concurred, "Alcohol is marketed as the epitome of sophistication and masculinity. While I have no quarrel with the industry itself — after all, they don't advocate drunkenness — I am concerned that so many young people are totally ignorant of the possible life-long effects of alcohol abuse."

Judge Seiler made an interesting observation. "It's been my experience after 17 years on the bench," he said, "that one of the reasons so many young people get themselves into trouble with alcohol is simply because they have not yet learned what to do with their free time."

"Alcoholism is the number one illness in the country. In close to 70 percent of the divorce cases, and divorce has become endemic in our country, the problem between the two marriage partners is alcohol abuse."

"I see people charged with assault and battery, petty larceny, grand larceny, disorderly conduct, armed robbery, you name it. The majority of these defendants are in trouble because of alcohol."

The suggestion, then, is that we get to our young people before they find themselves before a judge facing a jail sentence.

"That's the purpose of our program," said Lee. "I am a probation worker at this court, and I work with the Judge and Bob Kowalski to effect a change in attitude in the youngsters. We meet at the Wayne Recreation Building, two hours, one day a week. We meet for six weeks — a time period we call a cycle. Working with me is Leslie Pete Lawrence, a recovering alcoholic who has been my strong right arm."

"The program is a bridge between the court and the hospital."

Kowalski said that it was clear to people involved in alcohol abuse programs that when young people become associated with the traditional programs of therapy they suffer an identity crisis.

"Perhaps the most important part of any alcohol therapy program is to get people to open up and talk about themselves and their problems," he said. "And it's been pretty well established that people in the 17 to 21 age group have little in common with middle-aged people. Thus, in the hospital setting, experience has taught us that young people simply do not communicate with the group. This results in frustration for both the patient and the therapist running the group."

John Lee, however, can communicate with any one who seems to have an alcohol abuse problem.

John is a recovering alcoholic, and as Judge Seiler said, "John is effective because he can talk their language. He's been there."

Lee, who has been a therapist at Annapolis for five years, said, "The judge may be right, because I do know and have somehow lived through the horrors of addiction, I am able to, in the language of the young people, 'tell it like it is'!"

Lee said he was glad to be involved with the new program for youngsters. "There is so much ignorance about alcohol, that I'm convinced that some young people end up in court and honestly believe that they don't belong there. The whole purpose of the Awareness Program is to provide information to alcohol abusers so that they can make a drink-no-drink decision on an informed basis."

We want to remove the shroud of ignorance and the facade of virility from drunkness."

Judge Seiler said that he was happy to cooperate with the program for several reasons. "I've seen many Federally funded programs which purported to help the young people."

"Yet, I've never seen any of them which really work as well as the local programs. These are self-supporting, pay-as-you-go programs, and they work."

"Additionally," he concluded, "it's refreshing to see people who have been helped in an AA program or in the Annapolis or Awareness Programs turn around and say 'thanks' by themselves getting involved and helping others."

Kowalski added, "Since we've started the Awareness Program, we find that 97 percent of our clients are cooperating — it's only in 3 percent of the cases that we must work strongly in a behavior modification mode. And much of the credit must go to John Lee. He is the expert."

As we prepared to leave the Judge's chambers, the Judge made one last remark which serves as an excellent tag line.

"Alcohol is patient," he said, "but if you keep it up long enough, it'll get you."

Ballfield revisited

To the Editor:

In response to Jo Adkins and Peggy L. Wilson's letter to the Editor on no charity on the ballfield.

I have to agree with Mr. Lou Warden Coach of 2001 for refusing to give up any of his teams baseball schedule time.

Mrs. Marie Debuyscher could have scheduled this charity game during the week or on a Sunday. But I guess it would have been too much trouble to ask any of the men's teams first to see if they would give up any of their time.

I suggest anybody wanting to use Elmer Johnson Park for any type of charity or fund raising baseball game should schedule these games around the existing baseball schedules.

Our Jim receives his due

Dear Mr. Fassett,

A neighbor let me have your April 20 Romulus Roman and I really did like so many of the articles.

We used to take your paper but had such bad delivery that my husband stopped it. But the article that I really liked was "The Woodshed revisited" by Mr. Jim Bradley.

It was so good to read that someone else believes in spare the rod and spoil the child. And I don't mean to beat them either as I've raised 4, and I'm one of eleven.

My father was very strict but only ever whipped my 2 brothers for sassing him and my mother was very gentle but when she meant business, we knew our hour of reckoning was at hand.

None of us ever got into trouble and are good workers too. My father's motto was "No work no eat" and he meant it.

I phoned Mr. Bradley and told him how very much I enjoyed his article and hope you will let him write more and all of your other writers too.

If you feel you want to write some of this in your paper, please don't put my name on it as it might upset my husband who has been very ill this last year and a heart attack too but much better.

He is 80, been married 49 yrs. in Feb.

Thank you,
H.A.

Society needs new value system

We live in a society today, that is very much in need of a new value system. Our culture seems to put no great emphasis on life, but instead, puts it on monetary gains, not really of personal value.

There is a good example of why we should take a look at ourselves and what our country is producing. At this moment a man is running around loose that is mentally and emotionally unbalanced. He is a man who is full of hate and anger. This person, is a frustrated man that is deficient because he is, a product of his environment and of his society. He could be the man next door, the mailman, your doctor, your brother.

Timothy King was a young boy, with his whole life in front of him. He was very much loved and wanted. On a Sunday, not long ago, he fell victim to a man who had killed three other young people before him. As the days went by, all hope of finding Tim alive dwindled, until finally it was snuffed out, with the discovery of his frail young body, cold with death, in a muddy ditch.

Everyone's heart went out to this young boy's family. All felt the pain in their hearts at his tragic loss, as if he had been part of their own family. Indeed, he was a part too, a part of the family of the human race.

He was not the first person to be brutalized by death at someone else's hands, nor will he be the last, until we are able to evaluate the system of stress we have built and correct it.

God, help our souls, to save us from ourselves and our creations.

Who killed the Easter bunny?

Dear Mr. Editor:

Once again the President of the United States and the Governor of Michigan will proclaim that the month of May will be set aside to honor the older Americans for their contributions to our society.

This same month in most communities is also set aside by local governments as budget time. The older Americans receive a feeling of being rejected in their quest for equity of all funds. Federal-state-local. They feel our local officials fail to see the needs even after the older Americans act now forbids discrimination because of age that was passed in Nov. 1975.

Is this not a growing kind of amorality game going on today between the media and local government. Why, is nothing said in the newspaper about seniors not being included in all the new federal funds coming to our city?

Why not reveal "everything." "Everything" the people need to know and let the chips fall. Only then will we see what the older citizens are to receive in a form of equity of funds and what if anything these poor souls can hold on to.

Politicians for eleven months of the year act like tigers to support the seniors only to turn out to be pussies cats in disguise. So it behooves all citizens to be prepared for the possibility, of again this year of being shortchanged. Should this come about, no longer will the seniors wonder "who killed the Easter Bunny?"

Edgar A. Belanger
Westland, Mich

P.S. Mr. Fassett,

I have read many articles in the Eagle and other papers about the $3,500,000 federal funds and what is to be done with this money but not one word is printed as to what if anything is to be accomplished to better services to the aged does the media know things the people should know but are not informed of or is there some agreement not to explain this aspect to the citizens especially at budget time if so this is very "wrong" and should be corrected.

Carter's energy message

Like millions of other Americans, I watched and listened intently Wednesday night, as President Carter delivered his energy message to a joint session of Congress.

Also, like most Americans, I had mixed reactions.

In general, I found myself agreeing in principle with much of what the President said. There is no question that our nation will soon face a crisis unless we find an answer to the problem of increasing energy usage and dwindling supplies of our present fuels.

The energy problem, head-on, and certainly agree with his analysis that this is the most serious domestic problem that we will face in the next few decades. He has done what previous Presidents have not done — he has presented a real energy package to the Congress, with specific recommendations.

Many of his recommendations are good ones. Greater use of coal, tax credits for home insulation and solar energy installations, a reduction in oil imports — these are all sensible and fair proposals.

I found myself dismayed, however, when he outlined the details of his so-called "Gas-Guzzler Tax."

It is one thing to criticize the professional man or woman who drives, alone, to and from work or to a country club in a big Cadillac or Lincoln. It is another thing to level the same criticism against a working man who uses a nine-passenger station wagon to take his wife and five children to church or on vacation trips.

They are both driving "gas guzzlers," but there is a big difference. What choice does the man with a large family have? He can't pack his children into a small compact car. Unless he is lucky enough to live in New York, Boston, Chicago or some other big city with an efficient mass transit system, he had to rely on private transportation.

The President emphasized that his plan would ensure that no American makes a greater sacrifice than any other. What would he say to the couple with four, five or more children who have no choice but to drive what he calls a "gas guzzler?"

I also question the proposed gasoline tax which would be triggered by failure to reduce gasoline consumption on an annual basis. Experience has shown that higher prices do not reduce consumption, and simply result in a greater burden on those least able to bear it — those on low and fixed incomes. Gasoline pump prices have risen sharply in the past five years, but consumption has not been affected. The affluent have merely been inconvenienced, but the average middle-class wage-earner has seen his expenses rise even higher.

The doctrine, of fairness must be more than rhetoric. It must be meaningful, and it must apply

PBB a continuing threat

Probably the most emotional issue facing the Legislature today is the possible PBB contamination in the Michigan food chain. In many respects PBB has become the common cold of Michigan. Like the common cold, we know very little about PBB and even less about how to solve the problems it is creating. However, unlike the common cold, we cannot afford to let PBB run its course before it goes away.

I have personally sent a request to the Department of Agriculture for a report outlining what is being done to prevent chemicals such as PBB and PCP, a commonly used wood preservative, from threatening our environment. While I have received no reply to my request, I am reassured that proposed legislation will help to eliminate the problem of chemical contamination in Michigan. One of our highest priorities is to eliminate chemicals, particularly PBB, from our environment.

The chemical PBB has plagued Michigan since 1973. At that time the fire retardant, also known as polybrominated biphenyl, was accidentally mixed with a feed additive and fed to dairy herds throughout the state.

The accident went virtually unnoticed for 10 months until those dairy herds began showing signs of severe illness and contamination. Before the contaminated herds were destroyed, some were slaughtered and recycled for livestock feed. It was that accident which we believe established PBB in Michigan's food chain.

Whenever we first face a problem which is clouded by lack of facts and high emotions, it becomes a bigger problem to solve. That is the case with PBB and it is making our job in the Legislature more difficult. We have, however, begun to attack PBB and recently bi-partisan support for proposed legislation indicates, I believe, that we are having some success.

The most significant problem with the PBB issue is also the biggest obstacle facing the Legislature. No one, not even leading toxicologists, knows what affect PBB has when ingested in small amounts by humans. PBB has only been produced since 1971 and therefore, little testing has been done on how it affects the human body. Tests on a similar chemical, polychlorinated biphenyls, or PCB, have proven that large doses of PCB will produce cancer in animals and it is those tests which have raised concern over PBB. Because scientists are unsure about the effects of PBB, it is difficult for us as lawmakers to know what we must do about it.

Realizing our lack of knowledge, we called on a team of New York scientists to test families in Michigan considered highly exposed to PBB. While those scientists found abnormalities in the health of those individuals, there is no conclusive evidence that the abnormalities were caused by PBB.

People are responding to the wide-range affect the PBB crisis has had in Michigan. Mothers nursing newborn infants have been found with traces of PBB in their milk and it is believed chemical companies are allowing toxic waste, including PBB, to escape into water systems near their factories. There is a fear that future generations will be born with traces of PBB in their bodies and this fear has begun to affect Michigan's business community.

Canada will no longer purchase Michigan meat unless Michigan pays to have the product tested for PBB contamination. The Michigan Hog Industry says that sales are down because of the PBB controversy.

Our problem in the Michigan Legislature is not only in trying to limit the amount of PBB in our food chain, but also restoring public confidence in Michigan's environment.

Stat. Senator William Faust
13th District

A bill recently passed the House of Representatives and is currently before the Senate which would reduce the legal limit of PBB from 300 parts per billion, now allowed by the Food and Drug Administration, to 20 parts per billion. The bill would appropriate more than $35-million for testing the new limits in meat and dairy products.

While it is important that the Legislature solve the immediate problem of PBB in Michigan, it is equally important that we establish a system which will reduce the possibility of a similar crisis in the future.

A bill has been introduced in the Senate which I believe would reduce this possibility. Senate Bill 63 would create a Toxic Substance Control Commission to monitor abnormalities in human and animal health. Whenever conditions arose where health seemed threatened by a toxic substance, the Commission could declare a toxic substance emergency and would have authority to take necessary steps to eliminate the problem.

The problem with the PBB crisis has been the lack of a coordinated activity between departments in assessing the problem and acting quickly to solve it. While the Toxic Substance Control Commission would include members from the Departments of Agriculture and Public Health, it would supersede the two agencies on any problem dealing with chemical contamination.

The high cost of energy

A recent statewide survey by agencies on aging showed that utility bills are the number one worry of Michigan senior citizens.

The survey results are not surprising. Utility costs are skyrocketing, and rate increases continue to outpace growth in personal income. The persons hurt first and worst by the utility cost spiral are those with low incomes.

The pinch is particularly painful for senior citizens on fixed, low incomes who have little money left to buy food and pay other bills after they pay their gas and electric bills.

Legislative staff analysts conservatively estimate that the average Michigan family, with a household income of $17,800, pays about five percent of its income for utilities (excluding water).

Households with less than $10,000 annual income pay at least twice the average percentage of their income on utilities, or more than 10 percent.

A national study conducted in 1974 by two federal agencies — HEW and the FEA — estimated, at that point in time, that low income households nationwide spend an average of 11 percent of their income on natural gas and electricity alone.

Since then utility rates have increased dramatically. Two major Michigan utilities recently announced natural gas price hikes of 25 to 30 percent due to price increases by the Canadian government and rate increases approved by the Federal Power Commission. Ninety percent of the natural gas used in Michigan is brought here from other states and Canada.

When we talk about home heating in Michigan, we are talking about natural gas. More than seven out of every 10 Michigan residences are heated with natural gas, which graphically illustrates our dependence on this clean, efficient fuel.

The typical Michigan home uses about 200,000 cubic feet of natural gas a year at an average cost of $2 per thousand cubic feet, or total annual average cost of $400.

And comparatively speaking, it is the cheapest form of home heat. Fuel oil costs 1.4 times as much as natural gas, while propane costs 1.6 times as much. Electric heating is three times as expensive as gas heat.

However, the outlook is for natural gas prices to continue to soar as the supply of this vital fuel dwindles and Michigan is forced to turn to more expensive sources of gas.

Local officials will press battle over super sewer representation

On a vote of 19-4, Taylor was permitted to give his report stating that out Wayne County communities wanted representation on the Public Works Board.

The vote to reconsider went down to defeat, 14-10, with Detroit-based County Commissioners killing its chances. All County Commissioners representing local communities voted in favor of having local representation.

"Be sure and tell the people that we've been working hard to change the make-up of the Public Works Board and give our communities representation," County Commissioner Royce Smith of Belleville said.

"Some are saying that we're going along with the Detroit-led Commissioners and that's just not the truth at all."

At Friday's meeting at Romulus, local officials met again to plan strategy for the future.

On hand were members of the Wayne County Road Commission.

Tom O'Rourke, director of the Road Commission, said, "We're not here to help you set up a new authority. We're here to tell you how we operate and to respond to any questions you may have."

Canton Township Supervisor Harold Stein told the group that Van Buren and Canton townships had formed an Authority and that it could be expanded to include the other communities so they could build and operate their own sewer.

Engineer Robert Wade said that in June, 1974, Van Buren and Canton created a Water and Sewage Authority and that both communities had each done two sewer projects through the Authority.

Huron Township Supervisor John Puskar said, "There seems to be deliberate delays on the sewers. It seems that if we stay as we are, the supersewer will be lost — because Detroit knows we're not united."

elected officials were to look into the following:

1. Investigate existing contract conditions.
2. Draft language to amend Canton-Van Buren Authority.
3. Draft resolution for communities to adopt Authority.
4. Draft resolution giving Huron

Enough to build 10 parks

Roadside litter costs state $3,000 daily

If people stopped littering the highways today, they could save the state $3,000 a day, or more than $1 million a year—enough to build 10 new roadside parks along Michigan's highways.

That's the message from John P. Woodford, director of the Department of State Highways and Transportation, who said it cost Michigan taxpayers $1.8 million last year to clean up litter along state highways—60 percent of which was "avoidable."

"It would be better to spend this money on beautification or construction projects," Woodford said. "We could, in fact, build 10 parks with the grills and picnic tables so popular with Michigan motorists. Or two large freeway rest areas with modern restroom building.

"Instead, we must use it to clean up behind careless motorists who strew the roadsides with empty cans and bottles, candy wrappers and food cartons, papers and plastics."

Forty percent of litter pickup expense is for what is called "unavoidable" litter such as dead animals, fallen tree limbs and car parts. This alone added up to $700,000 last year.

The waste is in the $1.1 million that could be used for something constructive.

"Everyone is concerned about money, and most are careful when spending their paychecks," Woodford said. "But apparently many people driving along Michigan highways forget it is their tax money that is being spent to clean up the litter on the roads. Too many people are cheating themselves by creating the mess."

The cost of picking up "avoidable" litter along the highways averages $3,000 a day. During one year the cost ranges from $35 a mile in rural areas, where traffic is light, to $2,000 a mile along heavily traveled highways in metropolitan areas.

Post-winter cleanup along 9,400 miles of state highways has begun, and workers will be picking up after litterbugs through the summer and fall.

On a budget of $2.5 million, highway crews care for 67 freeway rest areas, 102 roadside parks and 200 picnic table sites. They mow grass, trim trees, clean restrooms and haul garbage.

The sum includes $130,000 to pay for handling household garbage discarded illegally in highway parks and rest areas by area residents who can't or won't deposit their refuse in local landfills, or arrange to have it picked up for them.

Subcommittee to review landlord-tenant law effect

The State House of Representatives' Consumers Committee has announced plans to review the impact and effectiveness of Michigan's landlord-tenant security deposit act this spring.

Committee Chair Lynn Jondahl of East Lansing said the review "is an attempt to establish that the legislature has a responsibility to look systematically at the results of its actions, even in the absence of crucial problems or sunset laws."

"I hope this review will set a precedent for further legislative analyses and it will help establish procedures which will be useful when we analyze more controversial measures," the Democratic Legislator said.

The security deposit act, which has been in effect since April 1973, states that a deposit is the property of the tenant unless the landlord can establish a claim to it when the tenant leaves. The tenant is obligated to note the condition of the rented property when moving in, and must give the landlord a forwarding address within four days of moving out.

'I hope this review will set a precedent...'

The landlord must claim damages from the deposit within 30 days after the tenant moves out, or return the full deposit. If the tenant disagrees with the landlord's claim, the landlord must go to court to keep a part of the deposit.

Rep. Jondahl has appointed Rep. Larry Burkhalter of Lapeer to head a subcommittee to conduct the review. The subcommittee will hold hearings in June on specific questions related to the act. Landlords and tenants are being asked to send comments to the subcommittee concerning their experiences with the act and suggesting specific questions for the subcommittee to analyze at the hearings. Comments may be mailed to the Michigan House Consumers Committee, P.O. Box 30014, Lansing 48909 until May 16.

Rep. Burkhalter said the hearings will be conducted with representatives of landlord and tenant organizations invited to assist by questioning people who testify. After the hearings are completed, interested people and organizations will be able to submit responses to the testimony in writing before the subcommittee begins work on its recommendations.

"We intend to involve the people who have lived with the security deposit act for the last four years, whether as landlords or as tenants, in every stage of these proceedings," Burkhalter said.

Other members of the subcommittee are Reps. Mark Clodfelter of Flint, Gilbert DiNello of East Detroit, Ruth McNamee of Birmingham, and Donald Gilmer of Augusta.

Cleary College conducts education award contest

William E. Kreger has been re-appointed to represent Wayne County on the Board of Commissioners of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA) a regional agency with 10 metroparks serving the citizens of the counties of Wayne, Livingston, Macomb, Oakland and Washtenaw.

The appointment was made by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners at their April 28 meeting. Kreger will serve a 6-year term, ending on May 15, 1983. It is his fifth appointment to the 7-member HCMA board.

Kreger is the president of Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Port Huron. He is on the executive board of the National Soft Drink Association and previously was vice-president of Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Wyandotte. He is a member of the Board of Directors of Panax Corp. He is a former mayor of the City of Wyandotte and was a member of the Wayne County Road Commission from 1955 to 1970.

He resides at 3301 Biddle Avenue, Wyandotte, Michigan.

County commissioners to retain revamped Public Works Board

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has voted to retain the present membership of the newly-created County Board of Public Works which is responsible for sewer systems and garbage disposal in the county.

The Board of Commissioners had approved the restructuring of the County Board of Public Works on April 12, changing it from a 3-member body controlled by the Wayne County Road Commission to a 7-member group under direct authority of the county commissioners.

Charging that the makeup of the Public Works Board did not adequately represent Western Wayne County, Commissioner Edgar Harris of Taylor filed a motion to reconsider the issue which brought the matter before the full board again on April 28.

"I believe that the present makeup of the Public Works Board is an inequity to those people living in Western Wayne County who pay for the building, maintenance and operation of their sewage systems and treatment plants," Harris said. "Three of the districts which will be governed by the new board are in Western Wayne County and would be the participants in the $140 million proposed 'super sewer' project," he said.

The super sewer project, formally known as the Huron Valley Waste Water Control System, involves 13 outcounty communities. Wayne County presently is seeking federal and state funds for the design and construction of this system.

Harris asked that the Board of Commissioners refer the public works board nomination back to committee to "work out an adequate representation formula" that would "give Western Wayne County more direct control over sewer projects".

His motion to reconsider was defeated by a vote of 14-10 at the April 28 full board meeting, with most of the support for referral coming from Western Wayne County commissioners.

When the new public works board was created, the plan required that four of the members reside in the proposed waste water control districts and that the remaining three be appointed to represent the county-at-large.

John Barr, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, appointed Commissioners Chester Wozniak of Hamtramck, Richard E. Manning of Redford, William Sullivan of Wyandotte for 3-year terms and George F. Killeen of Detroit and Clarence R. Young of Ecorse for 2-year terms.

In addition, he appointed Wayne County Road Commissioner Freddie G. Burton and Charles N. Youngblood, county drain commissioner. The drain commissioner's appointment is required by state statute.

Responding to the concerns of commissioners, mayors, and township supervisors from Western Wayne County, Barr advised the board that he would "take action to guarantee a stronger voice to the Western Wayne County communities involved in the Huron Valley Waste Water System".

He said he would begin immediately "to establish a super sewer task force and invite every community involved in that project to send a representative to serve".

"The future growth and prosperity of these several Western Wayne County communities depend, to a large extent, on the success of the super sewer project. Their investment is so great that common sense dictates they have a strong voice in the construction and operation of this project," Barr said.

He added that part of the charge given to the task force will be to make recommendations to the Public Works Board on the following responsibilities:

- The establishment of rates;
- Reviewing formula for construction costs;
- Acting as liaison to Congress and federal agencies; and
- Acting as liaison to state administrative agencies.

Barr said the new structure of the Public Works Board is expected to attract more federal dollars.

Western Wayne County Commissioners Harris, Royce E. Smith of Belleville and Thomas Presnell of Westland expressed disappointment and apprehension about the future of sewers in the outcounty areas.

They stated jointly "If only four of the 13 communities involved in the super sewer project withdraw, it would mean $140 to $168 million worth of work lost to the county."

County plans court appeal of jail ruling

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners tentatively has voted to appeal a decision by the City of Detroit which denies the county the right to build a new $32 million county jail facility near Greektown in downtown Detroit.

The City of Detroit Community and Economic Development Department had informed county officials that their request to build an 11-story, 800-bed jail, on the Macomb Avenue site had been denied because of a possible negative impact on Greektown.

Sitting as the Ways and Means Committee on April 21, the commissioners voted 14-7 to seek a reversal of that opinion by the Detroit Board of Zoning Appeals.

Although all 27 commissioners serve on the Ways and Means Committee, the vote must be approved by the full Board of Commissioners before any action is taken.

The full board was scheduled to meet last Thursday, in the City-County Building.

John Barr, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, has strongly advocated pursuing all legal avenues to win approval for the present site.

"To do otherwise would be irresponsible to our taxpayers since $15 million is presently at stake," he said. "We signed a contract with the City of Detroit last year to build a jail on that property. If we have to move to a new site, additional costs could even go as high as $2-3 million."

The controversy began in late February when Greektown merchants and the Central Business District Association (CBD) first raised objections to the Greektown area site.

The CBD has proposed an alternate location for the jail approximately three blocks away near the Wayne State University College of Medicine. The site is bounded by St. Antoine, Mullet, Gratiot and the Chrysler Expressway.

The County Board of Auditors has recommended against this site as too costly in terms of delay and redesigning the jail. The county had until Saturday to file an appeal.

Try to avoid paving ruse

"Many thousands of dollars will be wasted this spring and summer by Michigan people who think they're getting something for next to nothing when, in reality, they're getting nothing for something," warned Walter Tervo, executive secretary of the Michigan Asphalt Paving Association of Lansing.

Tervo was referring to the annual "gypsy paving racket" in which bands of itinerant gypsies go house to house about this time of year offering to resurface your driveway with a tar-based substance for a few dollars.

Actually, the band uses a worthless paint compound, similar in appearance to the sealing compound used by reputable firms, but lacking proper chemical ingredients, Tervo said.

Cost usually is whatever the market will bear, and, in the past, threats of physical violence have been used against people who complain or threaten to talk to authorities. With the early break in the weather, they already have been spotted in Detroit, according to reports.

"Reputable paving firms would do a far better job at less cost than that extorted by the gypsies working the racket," said Tervo.

Rep. Ford praises Carter's energy message

Congressman William D. Ford of Michigan's 15th District has come out in praise of the principles outlined recently in President Jimmy Carter's energy message to Congress. However, he has expressed deep reservations about those sections dealing with the automobile industry.

In particular the Michigan Democrat has questioned the fairness of the President's "proposed tax on so-called 'gas guzzlers'."

higher incomes."

Congressman Ford said he would withhold judgment on President Carter's overall energy package until he has assurance that the Administration understands his concerns and takes action to alleviate them.

Reigle: Emission standard would inhibit development

Michigan's freshman U.S. senator has denounced the Carter Administration's position on auto emission standards as a decision "made without regard to the impact those standards would have on the nation's economy, unemployment and auto-related industries," and said he stands "even more firmly" behind the emission standards in Senate Bill 919.

"At the same time this country is facing a critical energy problem, as the President outlined, the Administration is proposing auto exhaust standards which would impose a severe fuel penalty by forcing the unnecessary expenditure of billions of gallons of gasoline and fuel oil," Sen. Donald Riegle Jr. said. "Further adoption of the Administration's stricter standards would inhibit the development of other fuel-efficient engines — such penalty...'

'...standards

as the diesel, the CVCC, the stratified charge and the lean burn — alternative engines which show great promise in achieving both improved air quality and fuel economy improvement."

Riegle added that he and Sen. Robert P. Griffin and Congressmen J. Dingell requested an updated interagency analysis of the effects that each of the proposed emission standards would have on public health, fuel efficiency, air quality and consumer costs.

"Our request has not yet been fulfilled. Is the Administration moving ahead without that vital information? Where are their supporting statistics?" Riegle asked.

The Administration proposal would impose stricter standards for hydrocarbons in 1979 and for carbon monoxides in 1981, and delay a final decision on a nitrogen oxide standard until 1980.

The Riegle-Griffin amendments to the 1970 Clean Air Act, and its companion bill introduced in the House, would delay imposing any stricter standards until the 1980 model year, and tighten the standards to their lowest levels by 1982.

"The effect of the auto emissions schedule that we have proposed will continue the considerable progress already made in improving the ambient air quality. Our schedule will enable the attainment of statutory fuel economy goals with the least cost and greatest energy savings to the consumer. Moreover, it will protect public health, while maintaining manufacturing continuity and protect jobs in the auto industry," Riegle said. "This is more than a Michigan problem — the economic health of every state is affected by the employment and tax revenues generated by the manufacture, distribution, maintenance and commercial use of motor vehicles."

He noted that 14 million individuals — one out of every five — are employed in motor vehicle and related industries. More than 60 percent of the nation's motor vehicles and equipment industry employees derive their income outside of Michigan.

"I believe the emissions schedule we have proposed represents the best balance that can be reached on the auto emissions question — best in terms of our national economy, as well as in terms of the public health, air quality and the unemployment problems which critically affect this nation," Riegle said.

North JH students look at ecology

Eighth graders at Romulus North Junior High School got a special lesson in ecology last week, courtesy of Detroit Diesel Allison's (DDA) plant engineering department.

Albert L. Marshall, of the DDA plant engineering environmental section, spent April 27 with the students, explaining how Detroit Diesel Allison is treating chemical wastes and recycling oil at its plants in Romulus and Redford Township.

Marshall is supervisor of the chemical waste treatment facility at the Redford plant.

He spoke to the junior high students in five separate sessions, illustrating his talks with slides taken at the Redford plant. An estimated 500 students attended the lectures, according to Dan Hurst, chairman of the science department at the school.

Marshall's talk tied in with an ecology unit eighth graders have been studying, Hurst said.

The Redford waste treatment facility is a 4-story structure capable of processing 720,000 gallons of chemical waste a day.

The wastes are generated by manufacturing processes, which require large quantities of water and oil for cooling and washing operations.

By treatment in the waste facility, much of the oil in the chemical wastes is reclaimed, to be used again in manufacturing or as boiler fuel.

Most of the chemicals in the waste materials also are recycled.

A similar facility is employed at the Romulus plant.

If space is lacking

Consider virtues of gardening in containers

If you don't have enough space for a vegetable garden, why not consider the virtues of gardening in containers.

Horticulturists for Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service in Wayne County suggest that you plant vegetables in plastic bags, pots, wooden boxes, bushel baskets or even old buckets. Place them on a window sill, balcony or patio where there is plenty of light.

"Containers should be large enough to hold your plants when mature," pointed out Paul Bridgewater, Extension agent and coordinator of the "Growing Roots" gardening program, which is designed to teach limited-income Detroiters how to grow, use and preserve their own vegetables.

The size and number of containers will vary with the type of plants and available space. Six-inch pots are satisfactory for chives. Use 10-inch pots for miniature tomatoes, radishes or similar crops. Large plants, such as standard size tomatoes, can be grown in baskets, buckets and pails.

"Make sure the container has good drainage," Bridgewater said. "You can improve drainage by placing gravel or even broken clay pots in the bottom of the container or by drilling holes along the side of containers that do not have drainage holes."

Use a mixture of soil that also will drain well. Mix equal parts of soil, peat moss and vermiculite and 8 oz. of 5-10-5 fertilizer to make a full bushel.

To care for your container garden, water the plants when the soil surface turns light brown. Do not overwater and avoid wetting the leaves. Using a houseplant fertilizer, fertilize the plants according to package directions.

"If weeds appear in the container, loosen the soil and remove them immediately, being careful not to injure the roots of your vegetables," cautioned Bridgewater.

Mrs. Jean Langer holds the 1977 Michigan Sandy Flemish giant rabbit, Bruno, a 16½-pound buck. Her daughter, Julie, a fourth grader, helps raise the family's 60 rabbits, which eat almost a 1,000 pounds of feed a month.

Bunny Lane 'residents' brighten Sumpter School

Bunnies galore visited Sumpter Elementary School during the Easter season and gave the children a lot to talk about.

Jean Langer, a Sumpter Township parent, brought a collection of rabbits she raises at Bunny Lane for the students to see and learn about.

Three of the Flemish Giant rabbits are reigning grand champions: Bruno, a 16½-pound sandy buck; Baby, a 16½-pound black doe; and Buddy, a 14-pound fawn buck. Also included in the exhibit were two French Lops, a black and white Dutch doe, a black and white checker buck, a black Netherland Dwarf and three fawn babies. Mrs. Langer's 60 rabbits consume a half ton of feed a month.

In addition to raising rabbits, Mrs. Langer has taken on daily volunteer teacher aide duties in the lower grades at Sumpter Elementary School this year.

She and Mrs. Jennifer Nitz, another aide, provide extra help in many teaching areas. The ladies make learning games, design bulletin boards, plan art projects, prepare teaching materials and work with children on an individual and small group basis.

Kind, thankful remarks from classroom teachers include, "she's very dedicated and does many things at home for the kids", and "she's brought in her own recorder to work with children", and "both ladies have super rapport with children."

Both ladies have proven to be assets to the learning situation.

"We've truly enjoyed these ladies' strong, positive involvement in our school," said Principal Tom McLenon. "It demonstrates how children can benefit when parents show their concern and initiative by becoming involved actively rather than passively."

What's for lunch?

On tap for students in the cafeterias of the Van Buren schools next week will be such entrees as ravioli with cheese in tomato sauce, meatballs in gravy and beef turnovers.

In the elementary schools the menu Monday will be juice, hamburgers on buns, french fries, icy bird and milk, followed by sloppy joes on buns, vegetable, potato chips, fruit, cookies and milk on Tuesday.

Next Wednesday the cafeterias will be serving juice, ravioli with cheese in tomato sauce, fruit, bread and butter and milk, while soup pizza, vegetable, cookies and milk are slated for next Thursday.

Beef turnovers with mashed potatoes and gravy, fruit, Jell-O, pudding and milk will close out the week.

The menu Monday in the junior high schools will be hot roast beef sandwiches, mashed potatoes with gravy, salad, icy bird and milk, while Italian lasagna, vegetable, garlic bread, fruit Jell-O, pie and milk will be on tap for Tuesday.

Next Wednesday the bill of fare will be meatballs in gravy, with side dishes of mashed potatoes, vegetable, bread and butter, brownies, fruit and milk.

Next Thursday the cafeterias will be serving barbequed beef on buns, tator tots, vegetable, fruit Jell-O, cake and milk, with soup, grilled cheese sandwiches, french fries, fruit cobbler and milk rounding out the week.

The main entrees of the alternate menu in the junior highs will be Belleville burgers Monday, doubleburgers with cheese, Tuesday, Coney Island foot-long next Wednesday, steak sandwiches on buns next Thursday and tacos next Friday.

Of Michigan Consolidated

Keeley to intervene in rate hike case

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley officially notified the Michigan Public Service Commission (PSC) that he is intervening in opposition to Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.'s $110 million rate increase request. Consolidated's request is the largest in the gas company's history.

Kelley said: "Michigan Consolidated no sooner proclaimed record earnings to its shareholders for 1976, than it went to PSC pleading poverty and asking for a record $110 million rate increase. In that request the company is asking the PSC to recognize only a fifth of its actual net operating revenues for 1976 when it sets new rates."

Kelley pointed out that Michigan Consolidated's report to its shareholders and financial data filed in its rate case discloses these points about the company's financial position:

(1) In 1976 Michigan Consolidated reported to its shareholders record earnings of $37,136,000, the largest earnings in company history.

(2) Its 1976 earnings constituted a rate of return on common equity of 13.86 percent, substantially in excess of the 12 percent authorized by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

(3) The company's revenues jumped 28 percent in 1976 over 1975, and net income increased by nearly 14 percent over 1975.

(4) Michigan Consolidated's parent company, American Natural Resources Co., reported "record growth in earnings" and announced earning a rate of return on common equity of 14.6 percent and over the last four years (1973-1976) having earned between 14 percent and 14.6 percent.

(5) In 1976 Michigan Consolidated actually had net operating revenue of $55 million, but by making various "adjustments" the company reduced this net operating revenue to only $11.6 million for ratemaking purposes.

Kelley added: "Michigan Consolidated's rates to a typical residential hearing customer have doubled in a little more than four years, and the vast majority of those increases have occurred not as a result of rate increase hearings, but because of the automatic purchased gas adjustment clause."

Kelley has asked the PSC to eliminate the automatic adjustment clause as it applies to Michigan

Consolidated, and also to only establish rates after hearings have been held.

More than 80 percent of Michigan Consolidated's cost of gas is charged to that company by its own sister company, Michigan-Wisconsin Pipeline Co. Both these companies are wholly owned subsidiaries of American Natural Resources. Nearly 75 percent of Michigan Consolidated's expenses relate to its cost of gas.

Kelley said: "How can Michigan Consolidated claim its costs of gas really are beyond its control when the chairman and chief policy officer of Michigan Consolidated is the same man who is chairman and chief policy officer of Michigan-Wisconsin Pipeline Co.?"

The automatic adjustment clause is designed to allow a utility to pass on costs of fuel which are beyond that utility's control.

Preaching is my business

THE REV. ESAIAS F. LEE, SR.
Pastor of the Springhill
Baptist Church
Inkster

Rev. McCreight will be installed in pastoral post

The Belleville United Presbyterian Church of 11900 Belleville Rd., will install The Rev. Robert G. McCreight as their new pastor in a 7:30 p.m. service Wednesday.

Included in the worship service will be his father, The Rev. John L. McCreight and grandfather, Dr. Robert W. Gibson, both Presbyterian ministers, as well as other ministers and elders from the Detroit Presbytery.

There will be a reception for the McCreights at the church, following the service.

Pastor McCreight lived in Pennsylvania, New York and Ohio before attending Muskingum College in New Concord, Ohio. He graduated with a double major in religion and philosophy before going on to Preaching should take priority over any other business a minister might be asked to do.

These are the days when preaching has been minimized and promotion has been glorified, when the church has become 'big business', and preaching has been relegated to a minor role.

Vance Havner writes these words of wisdom: "My Bible does not say, 'How shall they hear without a brass band?' It says, 'How shall they hear without a preacher?' If preaching won't do God's work, nothing else will. We have fallen upon all sorts of carnal devices to pack the house with argumenta that the end justifies the means."

It is an admission that we have failed to follow the New Testament pattern.

It is not the duty of the preacher to fill the house; it is his business to fill the 'pulpit'.

Let us hope and pray that the people of God will grow weary of stones and seek bread. We do not better ourselves by aspersions cast on great preaching or by low-rating giants of the past generation; we could use a few today.

"Preaching is a pastor's main business." In Acts-18:5, we read: "Paul devoted himself entirely to delivering the message" (The Twentieth Century Testament).

I hope that these words will give new hope to any one that has lost hope. Remember the words Jesus left to His Disciples: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel, and lo, I am with you always."

May God continue to bless all of you in the work.

MR. AND MRS. GREG EPLING

May bride-elect feted at shower

Flying in from Lexington, Ky. the weekend of April 22, Claudia Czajkowski came home to be guest of honor at a bridal shower. Taking time from her duties as occupational therapist at Lexington's Cardinal Hill Hospital, Claudia had the pleasure of opening scads of beautiful new items for the future home she and Chuck Webster plan to establish in Lexington.

Hostesses at the April 24 party were the honoree's aunt, Mrs. Arthur Martin; also her cousin, Suzette Martin; and her sisters, Cathy, Cindy, Sherry and Carol, who are to be in the bridal party along with Sandy Riney of Belleville.

Over 50 relatives and friends arrived from Petersburg, Saginaw, Westland, Garden City, Detroit, Dearborn and Belleville for the two o'clock shower which included several party games and a buffet supper.

Vases of fresh garden blooms centered the individual tables while a larger arrangement of flowers and a pink and white watering can graced the gift table. Under a canopy of pink and white streamers and white wedding bells, the hostesses used a photo collection of the future bride and groom with the caption, "Claudia and Chuck, May 21, 1977."

The young couple have reserved St. Anthony's Catholic Church for their afternoon spring nuptials.

New tax deductions arrive on April 15

Income tax day, April 15, will be a day to both dread and look forward to from now on at the home of Lawrence and Rita Schilling in Romulus.

The couple, who reside at 34800 Lynn, welcomed their first child that day at 11:39 p.m. at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak. The new heir, who weighed in at 8 lbs. - 1 1/2 ozs., was titled "David Lawrence."

David is the first grandson of Mrs. Mary Hane of Dearborn. His paternal grandmother is Mrs. Thelma Schilling of Wyandotte.

Another arrival on the day devoted to the IRS (income tax day) was Kenneth Michael McNabb, the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lloyd McNabb of Azalia Place, Wayne.

The baby arrived at 8:36 p.m. April 15 at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

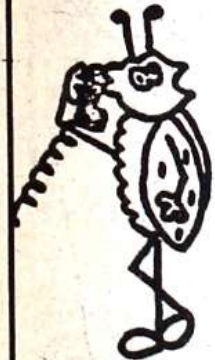

His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Chapman and Lloyd McNabb of Romulus and Patricia McNabb of Wayne.

Epling-Henderson vows repeated at Baptist church

Candlelight at the altar and down the center aisle of Faithway Baptist Church in Ypsilanti set the mood for the recent wedding of Tena Hendrickson and Greg Epling.

Dr. James O. Phillips presided at the seven o'clock rite which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hendrickson of 2124 Riverway, Dallas, Texas, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Avery Epling of 2325 Lake in the Woods Blvd., Ypsilanti.

For the April 9 nuptials, Sherri Golden sang "Each for the Other" and "Because" and Richard Hunter sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who made her home at 44977 Robson Rd., Belleville, was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding day she selected a toe-touching creation of chiffon and lace designed in the empire mode with full, sheer sleeves cuffed in lace. The lace-trimmed bodice featured a high neckline accented with seed pearls; the same lace adding interest to the chapel train which extended from the skirt.

Her 4-tiered veil of French nylon tulle, which drifted into a cathedral train, was caught to a little crescent headpiece of lace and pearls. Completing her bridal finery was a cascade bouquet of white orchids, red roses, lilies of the valley, ferns and baby's breath.

The bride's sister-in-law, Diana Brown of Ypsilanti, was asked to be honor attendant. Her royal blue gown of polyester and jersey was designed with an A-line skirt and blue floral chiffon cape. A light blue picture hat with a cascading blue sash complimented her dress as did the bouquet of white orchids, red roses, blue cornflowers and baby's breath which she carried.

Bridesmaids in identical pale blue outfits were Paula Caldwell, Joyce Adkins, Diane Henry and Verda Dailey, the bride's cousin, all of Belleville.

The bridegroom asked his brother, Jeff Epling of Ypsilanti, to be best man. Ushers were Paul Moore, the bridegroom's cousin from Kentucky; Bill Brown, Glen Hood and Gene Ward, all of Ypsilanti.

Three-year old Brad Brown of Ypsilanti carried out the duties of ringbearer and Joanna Hunter, four, of Belleville was the petite flowergirl. Her pale blue polyester frock was worn with a white eyelet cape lined in royal blue. Her white picture hat was sashed in blue and the little basket she carried was filled with white orchids, red roses and blue cornflowers.

Candlelighters for the ceremony were Garrell Little and Herb Williams, both of Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Hendrickson chose for her daughter's wedding a blue chiffon formal gown while the bridegroom's mother appeared in a floor-length dress of light blue chiffon and polyester. Both were honored with white orchid corsages accented with red roses and baby's breath.

A reception in honor of the young couple followed in the church hall. The newlyweds are now at home at 46141 Village Green Dr., Belleville, where the new Mrs. Epling is employed at the Van Buren Convalescent Center. Her husband is with Dura Corporation in Adrian.

The bride, a 1976 graduate of Belleville High School, also attended Eastfield College in Dallas, Texas. Epling graduated from Faithway Baptist High School in 1976 and later attended Eastern Michigan University.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the bridegroom's parents, was held at the Sveden House in Allen Park.

Town Meetings to herald Michigan Week, May 14-21

Thirty Washtenaw County community leaders met recently to create a new opportunity for community participation. They decided to organize a Town Meeting to be held locally during Michigan Week, May 14-21. The Town Meeting format will encourage citizens throughout the county to participate in their communities' affairs. Citizens will have an opportunity to talk about present needs — as they see them — and to project various means for meeting these needs.

John Comstock, Director of the Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service, invited representatives of public agencies and private industry to evaluate the feasibility of planning a county-wide Town Meeting program. Robert Walton, Coordinator for the Institute of Cultural Affairs, explained the function and value of a modern day "Town Meeting." It is expected, according to Walton, that 100 Town Meetings will be held throughout Michigan during Michigan Week.

Representatives of the local Town Meetings will be invited to attend a "State Assembly" on June 4 in Lansing.

As a result of the initial meeting three teams were formed to plan, develop and organize a local meeting. Ronald W. Seymour, Gundar Myran, Thomas Vaillien-court, John Comstock and Clarence Utley will serve on the Community Support Team.

Greg Koroch, Pat Kornecky-Bush, Lydia Muncy, Robert Lillie, John Trocke and Carl Macomber will serve on the Sponsor Enlistment Committee, and Robert Brandt, Diana Parkes, Donald Pennington, Lois Cook and Nancy Margolis will work on the Attendance and Promotion Team.

The three teams will meet April 12 for a 2-hour training and planning session to be held at Howard Johnson's. Any persons or organizations interested in learning more about the projected Town Meeting program are invited to contact the Cooperative Extension Service at 973-9510.

Belleville Kiwanis hosts President's Ball

They were in command

This equally friendly-and-formidable looking quintet are the men of Kiwanis who have been at the helm of the Kiwanis President's Ball for the past five years. Inaugurated during the administration of Don Meyer (center), the annual dinner-dance has been continued by Jim Richendollar (from left) the current club president; John Touse; Bud Stapleton and Bill Matthews. The traditional spring gala is one of the area's biggest social events of the year. In the photo below, their feminine counterparts (who must be given credit for much of the dance's success since they see to the decorations) posed prettily for our Lothar. Frances Stapleton (from left), Sharon Matthews, Pat Touse, Jean Meyer and Sharon Richendollar have been the forces behind the spring social. In charge of the transformation of the hall into a literal spring fairyland were Evelyn Larabell and Peg Chizmar.

Dinner preceded dancing

Making up one of the 28 tables for 10 at the fifth annual Kiwanis President's Ball was this congenial group invited by one of the Kiwanis Club's newer members, Kurt Atchinson and his wife, Jayne, (right.) Their guests included

Time for a slow one

The Kiwanis President's Ball, sponsored by the Belleville Kiwanis Club, played to a packed house with over 280 dance enthusiasts on hand for the gala cocktail dinner dance held April 23 in the Fr. Foltz Building.

American beef — ground and glorious — provides popular family main dishes

When we count our daily blessings, ground beef surely must be included. For this most popular "cut" in the meat case is as American as apple pie and many times as popular.

Kids and teens never tire of hamburgers, Mom appreciates the thrifty and easy cooking attributes of ground beef and Dad recognizes an excellent cookout food when he sees it. All the family value ground beef for its great flavor and satisfying goodness. And it treats all to good nutrition in terms of high quality protein plus vitamins and minerals.

Many retailers now label ground beef with the amount of lean (or fat) it contains, usually ranging from 70 to 85 percent lean. Some fat is important to the good eating qualities of ground beef, points out Reba Staggs, National Live Stock and Meat Board home economist.

You'll want to add these good ground beef oven entrees to your recipe file.

What should the deceased wear?

Clothing helps to express the unique characteristics of an individual. Even in death, clothing can convey the special personality of the deceased. In the planning of funeral details, the matter of clothing for the deceased should not be overlooked.

Has there been a request in the past from the deceased concerning his or her own feelings? Sometimes a uniform of office or volunteer leadership has been requested, because of the significance to the deceased. Medals and jewelry may be considered to complete the uniform or dress.

Is clothing worn by the deceased during lifetime appropriate? By all means, A suit or dress which was a particular favorite of the deceased — or the survivor — may be the prime consideration.

Two Romulus women elected to Girl Scout Council posts

Mrs. Yvonne Campeau of Romulus was among the 15 members of the Board of Directors of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council elected at the April 21 meeting held at the First United Methodist Church of Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Campeau is currently the press representative for the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council; is acting leader of Junior Girl Scout Troop 686 and during 1975-76 was co-leader of Brownie Troop 178.

The co-founder of Huron Countryside Co-op Nursery established in 1973, she was involved with publicity, the membership drive, fund raising, program and equipment and operative policies and procedures.

She has been a volunteer worker during school millage elections (her husband having served as a member of the Huron School District Board of Education) and at present, she assists a fourth grade teacher in her classroom.

Another Romulus resident, Mrs. Jean Savage, was elected to the nominating committee during the same meeting. Mrs. Savage, who resides at 33951 Goddard Road, is a training coordinator for Huron Valley; was a Brownie leader from 1958-60 and 1972-77 and Junior leader from 1960-63 and 1974 to the present time.

She took on Cadette leadership from 1963-66; was senior advisor from 1966-73; served as chairman of the S. Wayne nominating committee from 1974-77 and was chairman of the Romulus Girl Scouts in 1966.

Her other activities include being secretary of the Drug Abuse and Help Center from 1975-77; secretary of the Literary Club during the same period; Sunday School superintendent of the Community Methodist Church from 1967-70 and 1975-77; Sunday School teacher at the her church from 1957-70; membership in the PTA at both Romulus and Barth Elementary Schools from 1956-77; and choir membership in her church from 1950-77.

By-law changes strengthening the role of volunteer delegates in the operation of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council were adopted at the organization's annual meeting.

The 112 delegates who represent seven regional associations of volunteers and girl members age 14 and over in Washtenaw, Livingston, western Wayne and northern Monroe counties, approved by-laws covering procedures for annual meeting consideration of new business and potential removal from office of board members.

In a late-day action the delegates also voted to ask the council board of directors to withdraw its action of several months ago in congratulating the national board of directors of the Girl Scouts of the USA in New York for its endorsement of the Equal Rights Amendment. The request will be considered at a future board meeting, according to council president Mrs. Frances Bauer of Plymouth.

Support for the local board's action had centered on the council's long standing commitment to affirmative action in hiring an equal employment opportunities for women with equal pay and benefits for all employees. Opposition to that earlier action focused on the desirability for additional input from volunteers and girl members as well as on possible conflicts of this type of action with National Girl Scout policy limiting legislative activity.

"Over the past seven years we have made special efforts to involve grass roots membership in Council decision making," commented Mrs. Bauer. "Today's by-law revisions will move us further in that direction."

In other action, the delegates representing 2700 adults who each year work with over 17,000 area Girl Scouts elected two new officers for three year terms and gave awards to outstanding volunteers.

Elected as second vice president was Mrs. Marilou Andersen of 3046 Flora Lane in Wayne. Mrs. Andersen has served as chairman of the Volunteer Personnel Committee for the past two years and as chairman of the Annual Council Meeting in 1975. She is also co-editor of the State News Letter of Church Women United of Michigan.

Mrs. Joanne Young of 100 Inverness, Howell, was elected secretary of the Council. She has been a board member for the past three years and a member of the Wider Opportunities Committee which recommends area teen-age Girl Scouts for National Girl Scout events.

The two will serve as the executive team of the Council along with Mrs.

Bauer, Mrs. Susan Sayre of Ypsilanti, first vice president; Mrs. Pat Levos of Ypsilanti, third vice president; and Benjamin Koerber, president of the National Bank of Ypsilanti, treasurer.

The highest honor awarded by Girl Scouts of the USA, the Thanks Badge, went to Mrs. Woodie Merchant of 9707 Mooreville Road in Saline and to Mrs. Sally Nitzel of 35743 Phyllis, in Wayne. Mrs. Merchant was recognized for her contributions to the Council as board member, member of several councilwide committees and for her involvement in other aspects of community service.

Mrs. Nitzel was honored for leading the Wayne-Westland Area Association as chairman since March 1974, a period in which the organization of 333 volunteers has held numerous special events and day camps involving hundreds of volunteers and girls and stimulating interest in Girl Scouts in that area.

The Council also presented special appreciation awards to six volunteers including Mrs. Dru Schoch and Mrs. Virginia Castor, both of Ann Arbor; Mrs. Marilyn Brown of Canton; Mrs. Marge Ruppel of Brighton; Mrs. Roberta Hinz of Chelsea, and Mrs. Grete Skjaerlund of Dexter.

Mrs. Bauer made special presentations to volunteers who have given major assistance to the Council in achieving triennium goals. The Teamwork Award was given to members of the Ad-Hoc By-Law Revision Committee: Nan Crooks of Ann Arbor; Joanne Young of Howell; Jo Morse of Plymouth; Jill Karolyi of Belleville; Vicki Hicks of Saline; Dru Schoch of Ann Arbor; Joyce Hunt of Ypsilanti, and Marge Ruppel of Brighton.

Awards for extending membership went to Mrs. Arlyce Smallidge of 416 Sackett, Monroe and Mrs. Ruby Monk of 42174 Fairview, Plymouth.

Mrs. Nancy Krohn of 905 Robin Road, Ann Arbor, was recognized for service as a volunteer trainer.

The Girl-Adult Partnership goal award went to Mr. and Mrs. Gary Diehl of 728 Knollwood Ct., Saline, for their development of community-wide activities for Saline Girl Scouts through an organization of girl members called the "Daisy Bunch", named for the founder of Girl Scouting, Juliette (Daisy) Low. Betty Guzik of 36643 Gilchrist, Westland, received the same award for her work with older Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Judy Neeb of 3051 Lakeview Drive, and Mrs. Ruth Howe, 1427 White St., both of Ann Arbor; and Girl Scout Linda Simmons of 222 Hibbard, Manchester, were given awards for their participation and individual responsibility in Council activities.

Mrs. Marcia Piper of 11330 North Territorial Rd., Dexter, was presented with a goals award related to fund raising. Mrs. Sandy Askew of 50915 Willow Run Expressway, Belleville, was cited for her work as a Troop Service Director for Rawsonville Girl Scout troops.

CB World

World's biggest partyline keeps growing

By JANICE PLESIEWICZ
Nightbird - KNN5032

Breaker, breaker. Anyone still got a copy on Nightbird? I was with you last week to introduce you to CB World. This week I would like to take you through the general world of CB radio.

CB has got to be the world's biggest party-line. It's growth has been fantastic. In itself it is not new. It did not come about overnight. The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) allocated certain frequencies for the use of CB radio in 1947. At that time it basically was used by farmers, boaters and, of course, truckers.

The actual "BOOM" happened when the national speed limit was changed to 55 mph to conserve fuel. The truckers wanted to run on schedule and at the same time know where the police were located. It was of importance to know road conditions and locations of service stations, motels and general information. CB radio became a portable telephone.

The public was not too far behind before they caught on to what was happening. The results are obvious and it looks like it's here to stay.

One thing everyone should realize is that CB radio can be a pleasure, or it can be a headache. One of the most useful of all applications of CB radio has been to emergency and rescue work. There are many groups monitoring the channels, such as REACT (Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Teams), ME-(Michigan Emergency Patrol) and HELP (Highway Emergency Life Patrol). These groups are designed to assist motorists with local information, dispatching emergency vehicles, relaying information to local police agencies and many functions far too numerous to mention at this time.

Channel courtesy is of the utmost importance, and I cannot stress this enough. It is this writer's opinion that without the channel courtesy, we will have nothing but mass chaos and confusion on the channels.

One reason for the growth of CB is the ease with which you can get started. There are no tests involved, no demand for electronic know how and no theory to learn. It is one of the most exciting personal toys that ever came into existence. If you want to pretend on CB, go ahead, no one knows you other than by your handle. It can be your fantasyland.

If the occasion arises and you need help, it's there. Vacationers get the information they need. Many a long, lonesome night has been livened up a little for those truckers making long hauls. The airwaves are for the use of everyone, and your CB radio can prove to be an asset to you.

Another attraction has been the low-cost equipment. There is no longer a mass of glass tubes to contend with. Today's radios are now filled with transistors, making them more compact.

The greatest attraction of all probably has been communicating itself. You can speak to someone from your car over a distance of about 10 miles, or nearly double that from your home. It's an exciting experience to communicate with the world out there and a lot of good friendships have been made because of the use of CB.

I think you will find one thing to be true about CB. You either like it or you don't. There is no in between. I have run into several people who have listened to my radio and said, "How can you stand to listen to all that noise?" It takes time to listen to all that noise, but once you do you will more than likely find that you enjoy it.

Where will it all end? Who knows? It is said that there are now 80 million CB radios in use right now. Eventually, it is predicted, that every nine out of 10 cars will be equipped with CB radio. I see it to be true at the rate it is growing right now.

There are many things that everyone should be acquainted with before they enter the magical world of CB, such as FCC Rules and Regulations, Channel 9, handles, ratchet jaws and much, much more. In future columns I intend to inform you of anything I can to keep you aware of what is happening in the "CB World."

So go ahead and lay the hammer down. Keep the shiny side up and the greasy side down. We're do'in it to it your way good buddies. This Nightbird is down.

Here's a few tips on cooking for two

By MAUREEN BEATTY

Although the use of birth control is at an all time high, and this country has reached zero population growth, no one, obviously, has informed our grocery manufacturers. With some exceptions our food products still are packaged with the large family in mind. Skillfulness then, as we discussed last week, is a must in utilizing leftovers. For most senior citizens every penny counts, and wasted food is wasted money.

Here are a few tips for eliminating waste when cooking for one from Prudy Labrie, a senior working at J Building:

(1) Prudy buys a small can of tuna fish, uses half the can for a main dish salad and a few days later creams the other half and serves it on toast.

(2) She combines a half pound of hamburger with 1/4 cup of soy beans, makes patties and freezes them individually. Patties then can be cooked when desired.

(3) When Prudy makes a casserole she first divides the recipe in half, bakes, then freezes half of the cooked casserole for another day. No waste.

My aunt, Mrs. Arthur Reynolds, claims she never has waste although cooking only for two. Her suggestions:

(1) Mix a little rice with any leftover beef, chicken or ham and use for stuffed peppers.

(2) Leftover cooked beef can be combined with leftover mashed potatoes, an egg and crumbs for croquettes.

(3) Divide a can of corned beef. Use half for sandwiches and half for corned beef hash.

(4) Leftover chicken can be turned into "first night" chicken and dumplings or chicken pie.

(5) Leftover pork or chicken can be used for chop suey.

(6) Combine leftover chopped beef with a can of spaghetti, sprinkle with grated cheese and heat in oven.

(7) The bean sprouts leftover from making chop suey can be used in soup.

That little bit of cottage cheese no one finished up? Add it to your scrambled eggs instead of milk next time. And last, but not least, a dish my mother makes that is one of my all time favorites: Grind up leftover beef or pork, add leftover gravy, top with mashed potatoes and pats of butter and heat in the oven. Delicious Shepherd's Pie.

Those wormy webs in tree are Eastern tent caterpillars

This week's tips from the Garden Doctor are:

Q: There are webs with worms in the crotches of our trees. Will they harm the trees?

A: These sound like Eastern tent caterpillars, and they do eat leaves. Control is to remove the tents and destroy them on a cloudy day as soon as they become apparent. Or, if they're extremely numerous, apply Bacillus thuringiensis, malathion or Sevin to the tents and foliage during mid-May.

Q: Our family will be raising vegetables for the first time this spring. How do I get started?

A: Choose a site that gets sun all day. Strip off the sod and work the soil to a depth of 10 inches. Mix in some organic matter, such as peat moss, and about 2 lbs. of 5-20-20 fertilizer per 100 square feet. Check the seed packets for depth to plant and distance between plants. Bulletins on varieties for Michigan and on insect control are available from the County Extension Service.

Q: Will strawberries bear fruit the first year?

A: Everbearing varieties produce fruit the same year they're planted. June bearers will produce the following year. For both types remove all flower clusters as they appear up to the first of July. When newly set plants are allowed to fruit, they give low yields and have difficulty getting established.

Q: How are evergreen foundation shrubs fertilized?

A: A general recommendation is to use 3 lbs. of 10-10-10 per 100 square feet. Work this lightly into the soil under the shrub branches.

Q: How should I care for an Easter lily?

A: Easter lilies can be used as outdoor plants for years to come. After the flowers fade, keep the foliage growing so it can make food for the next year's flower. After the foliage yellows, move it to a cool, dark place. At the end of May, knock the root ball out of the pot and plant in a well-drained, shady area in the garden. The bulb should be covered with 6 inches of soil. It may send up new growing shoots in mid-summer, but probably won't bloom again until June or July of next year.

VAN BUREN TOWNSHIP NOTICE OF RIGHT TO REFERENDUM ON BECOMING A CHARTER TOWNSHIP

Official information has been received from the Secretary of State of the State of Michigan, indicating that the township of Van Buren, Wayne County, has attained a population of 5,000 or more. This being the case, the township board has the right to exercise one of three options concerning township status as a charter township under the provisions of Act 90 of 1976.

(1) Adopt, by majority vote, a resolution opposed to incorporation.

(2) Adopt, by majority vote, a resolution of intent to approve incorporation.

(3) Adopt, by majority vote, a resolution to place before electorate the question of incorporation at the next regular or special township election. In the event option (2) is adopted by the township board, the citizens of the township have the option to file a "Right to Referendum Petition". This petition must be filed within the 60 days which must lapse between the passage of a resolution of intent to incorporate and the final passage of the resolution to incorporate as a charter township.

The petition will follow, in general form, the nominating petition form as prescribed in the Michigan Election Law, Section 168.544 (c), and in the heading will indicate "disagreement of intent to incorporate as a charter township". The petition must be signed by not less than 10 percent of the registered voters of the township based on the vote cast for all candidates for supervisor at the last election at which a supervisor was elected.

If the petition is successful, the question of incorporation will be placed on the ballot at the next general township or special township election.

If you've daydreamed your way to Acapulco, Mexico City or other points south of the border but, somehow, never seem to get on that plane and wing your way to the land of the Aztecs, you just might enjoy a fantasy journey via Westland's Mexico Inn.

Not only is Mexican cuisine featured but the mood of a Spanish cantina is enhanced by the appearance of a 3-piece mariachi group which entertains during the dinner hour and later plays for dancing. Familiar Latin and American numbers are played on guitar, Mexican harp, violin and bass with one or more of the group often serenading patrons for special occasions.

Dancing is a fairly new innovation at the 3-year-old family establishment with music seven days a week from 9:30 p.m. to 2 a.m. Friday and Saturday and until 12 midnight the rest of the week. Proper attire is required for dancing — no T-shirts or jeans allowed.

On the weekend, food is served until four in the morning to catch the late-goers-home who might have a yen for a taco or enchilada. Lunch starts at 11 a.m. and Sunday dining hours are 12 to 12.

There are all kinds and sizes of Mexican dinners and snacks to choose from when you sit down to study the Mexico Inn menu. Following the recommendation of the owner-host, the four of us ordered the No. 1 Combination Plate which (take it from me, gals) is a bit too huge for the feminine palate. Our "escort" for the evening managed to clean his plate but his "dates three" hardly made a dent. We should have opted for the Mini Combinations for the Small Appetites instead. Our waitress, Julie, did a good job of seeing to our needs and was pleasant to boot.

Getting back to that No. 1 platter — for $5.75 it was comprised of a taco, cheese enchilada, tostada, burrito, beef enchilada, rice and beans. The salad bar, included with all dinners over $2.49, had the usual assortment of vegetables with which to build your first course.

While waiting for your entree to appear you might like to whet your appetite with a basket of corn chips and hot sauce for 85 cents. But, beware! If you're a novice with Mexican fare, go very, very lightly with that "liquid fire" (hot sauce) or you'll spend the evening spewing flames!

Mexico Inn

Combination plates, and there are four of them, range from $3.95 to $4.25 while the four mini plates go for $2.95 and $3.10. Other ethnic dinners are all under five dollars except for the porterhouse steaks at $7.95 which you can have either Mexican or American style.

Mexican style stew with pork as the base and a special 3-layered Mexican sandwich (flour tortillas with beans and rice topped with stew) both list at $4.25; botanas (corn chips with beans, Mexican sausage, cheese, avocado slices, tomatoes, lettuce, green pepper and onions) can be ordered small ($3.95) or large ($4.95). Portions of nachos (corn chips topped with beef, Spanish sauce, melted cheese and a jalapino peppers) are the same size and price.

Those "strictly American" stomachs are not forgotten and can be satiated with their favorites from seven standard items including chicken and shrimp. Only one dessert is offered — a basket of sugar and cinnamon chips for $1.25.

Cocktails with a Latin touch include the popular Margarita and Tequila Sunrise as well as a Cuba Libre, Sombra or Pina Colada. Mexican and American beers and a selection of wines, by the bottle, glass or carafe, are available.

Colorful paper flowers (Mexican imports), "grow" in profusion throughout the restaurant and help form the focal point at the center of the dining room where an enormous handmade macrame hangar bears dozens of the crimp-petaled blooms.

Mexico Inn can be easily located in the Wayne and Dale Plaza. At 910 S. Wayne Road, it's just four blocks south of Cherry Hill Road. The management is happy to accept reservations for groups of 30 or 40 who want to celebrate an anniversary or birthday. Call 728-8010 to book your party.

The early days of the week have special designations, Monday night being 2-for-1 night (all mixed drinks two for the price of one); Tuesday is Ladies Night when a complimentary drink is offered with dinner, and Wednesday is Tequila Night — all tequila drinks available at half price.

A senior citizens' special is being planned for sometime after Mother's Day so keep an eye out for the latest display ad in our paper.
Hasta la vista.....

'Nova' looks at Mars

"Nova", the public television science series for curious adults, presents three first-run programs and an encore during this month on Channel 56. "Nova" is televised on Wednesday nights at 8 p.m. with repeats captioned for the hearing impaired at 5 p.m. Saturdays.

"The Red Planet" tonight traces a 300-year quest for knowledge of Mars from the early days of astronomy through NASA-Viking missions. What scientists have found out so far is that Mars resembles Earth in several measurable ways. It has the same tilt in its axis; it rotates on its axis every 24½ hours; it has moons and a thin atmosphere. What they haven't found on Mars is life.

"Tongues of Men" (Part 1, May 11 and Part 2, May 18) examines the how and why of the nearly 5,000 different languages of the human species. Do languages have universal component? Should American-English become a universal language? Is there a Darwinian evolution of language? Are some languages better, stronger than others? Whatever the answers, the consequences for mankind are profound.

The encoring "A Desert Place" on May 25 is a rare documentation of life in the Sonoran Desert of southern Arizona — one of the hottest deserts in the world with the ground surface at 167 degrees. When water comes to the desert, in the shape of a desert thunderstorm, it is one of the most dramatic events on Earth.

"Nova" is produced by WGBH-Boston and underwritten for local broadcast by Parke, Davis & Co.

Cousteau to air 'Oasis in Space'

A 6-part TV series about the global environment, "Cousteau: Oasis in Space," will premiere May 7 on Channel 56. Each half-hour show, airing at 8:30 p.m., is hosted by Philippe Cousteau, son of the famed philosopher-explorer Jacques Cousteau.

By focusing on six specific places—including the Hudson River, Lake Superior and southwest Ontario—Cousteau explores some of earth's most fascinating and disturbing questions—the quality of life; water, food and energy alternatives; population; the future.

The series shows that politics is the cause of most environmental arguments and tries to bring viewers "to the point of action" on the issues, the producers said.

Joining Cousteau in his global odyssey are specialists like Isaac Asimov, Barry Commoner, Paul Ehrlich, Margaret Mead, Carl Sagan, Buckminster Fuller, Herman Kahn, Norman Borlaug, Russell Train, Frank Jacques Cousteau and Zarb, Gerald O'Neill, NASA scientists.

FUROR OVER SUPER SEWER

By LOTHAR KONIETZKO
ANP Chief Photographer

THE BIG STINK!

'Blustering Barr'

When local and county officials gathered to discuss the "Super Sewer" in western Wayne County, strong emotions were displayed by all parties involved. Clockwise, Chairman of Wayne County Commissioners John Barr implores local officials to "accept the set-up as it is and not destroy the super sewer." Pictured from top to bottom, Inkster Mayor Terrel LeCesne ponders the speaker's statement. Westland Mayor Tom Taylor and Romulus Mayor James Stewart listen after

Belleville stuns Ypsi, buries AP

Bolstered by excellent crowds and off to its best start in recent years, Belleville High may just turn into the "cinderella team" of the Suburban 8 Baseball Conference.

Behind Lance MacArthur's near-perfect pitching Friday, the Tigers buried Allen Park 11-1 for their third win in four league starts.

The victory also padded Belleville's over-all record to 4-1.

Coach Dan Fisher's minions knocked off natural rival, Ypsilanti, 7-6, in eight innings earlier in the week after losing a 7-2 decision to league rival, Redford Union.

"I said we're going to hurt people and our team is going out and doing it," Fisher said. "Our only letdown was in the R.U. game — they (R.U.) did things right, we didn't."

Belleville rallied for five runs in the bottom of the seventh with Roy Rutherford's grand slam homer turning the tide to tie the score at 6-6, then they scored once in the eighth to jolt Ypsilanti.

"After that grand slam," Fisher said, "we were unbeatable. We could have walked on water."

Stan Price started on the mound for the Tigers, but gave way to Jeff Smith after allowing three runs on two hits. He also hit two batters.

Smith worked 4 and two-thirds innings, was tagged for two hits and three runs while walking four and striking out five.

Ben Collins took over in the eighth and was given credit for the victory. He fanned two of the three batters he faced.

The loss went to Rick Soraruff who put the winning run on in the eighth. Dan Towler worked the first seven innings before yielding to Soraruff.

Belleville got its first run in the sixth when Dave Lundell drilled a solo home run. Then, in the seventh, with two away, Mark Cornett homered, bringing up Don Walls who walked. Lundell then belted a single and when Lance MacArthur walked it set the stage for Rutherford who hammered his career first grand slam.

Belleville put it away in the eighth as Rob Laney walked, advanced to second on a wild pitch and went to third on Dan Pavelka's bunt single. Ben Collins' sacrifice fly drove home the decisive run.

A seven-run Redford Union surge in the fourth inning destroyed Belleville and starting pitcher Greg Cicotte who was removed for Bill Hill. Hill proceeded to pitch scoreless and hitless ball for the next 3 and one-third innings.

The Tigers had a 1-0 lead in the first inning thanks to singles by Walls, Lundell, MacArthur and Rutherford's bunt single and they put their final run on the scoreboard in the seventh as Rutherford walked, was forced at second on Hill's grounder. Pavelka's double eventually scored the run.

Belleville has a four-game week, if weather permits. After meeting nonleague rival, Romulus, on Monday, they hosted Livonia Bentley on Tuesday and Dearborn on Friday, then, on Sunday, the Tigers made their debut at the Wyandotte Tournament, clashing with Gabriel Richard at 3:30 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

Romulus thinclads edged by Ypsilanti

From a six-man team three years ago, to a team that made highly-touted Ypsilanti sweat — that's where Al Wilkerson has brought the Romulus High track program today.

Romulus came within two points of tying Ypsilanti last Thursday, losing by a narrow 80-78 margin. That's the closest any Romulus team has come of bumping off the Braves in recent years.

"Naturally we're disappointed that we lost," said Wilkerson whose winning streak was cut at four. "We had it down on paper that we could possibly win by two, however, they got some points in the distances that we didn't expect."

"But, say this — that Romulus is definitely back in track," Wilkerson added.

Meet results: Ypsilanti 80, Romulus 78

Belleville soph, Don Lewis sets school record in 220

Sophomores don't usually go around setting records in track at Belleville High.

But Don Lewis is an unusually talented soph who erased former Belleville High All-Area sprinter, Mike Blazer's 220-yard dash record from the boards last week.

Lewis' 22.4 effort in the 220 eclipsed five-tenths of a second off the previous mark which helped Coach Don Medley's Tigers turn back Allen Park 104½ to 53½ in a Suburban 8 Conference dual meet.

The victory evened up Belleville's conference mark at 1-1.

"Our sophomores did an excellent job," Medley said, "especially Lewis." Lewis also won the 100-yard dash in 10.1

The Sports Meridian

'Star' sports reborn

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

The veritable Kam White laughed, and the laugh carried from his offices at Inkster High School to this typewriter in Wayne.

The now docile but once volatile track coach was reacting to a bit of information — that The Ledger Star will return to the doorsteps of our readers in Inkster.

"We're glad to have the paper back," White said. "When you people suddenly and mysteriously disappeared we felt we lost a close friend."

"And, you know I don't want to criticize other newspapers or the dailies, (Go ahead, Kam, be our guests) but we never got the coverage you gave us."

"And this hurt our athletic program, after all, an athlete and his parents want to read about the accomplishments and you were sort of goodwill ambassadors, serving a very vital need," White added.

The tumultuous decade that I personally covered Inkster sports — the cage duels between Coach George Thompson and Rouge's Lofton Green — the countless battles between some of the state's top athletes, have been a sort of memorabilia that one never forgets.

The mendaciousness in which we abandoned our Vikings over a year ago, stirred up guilt feelings.

We're glad we're back and we're looking forward to a Viking renaissance.

No, we haven't deserted the rest of the flock. Meanwhile, back in Belleville, track coach Dave Medley reports that last Friday's relays helped raise more than enough for new track uniforms.

Tiger thinclads and friends staged a 24-hour (from 3 p.m. Friday until 3 p.m. Saturday) relay to raise monies for the uniforms. "We received approximately $1,200 in pledges," said Medley, "and if we can collect $1,000 of that, we will have more than enough to purchase new uniforms."

Medley came up with some interesting statistics about the 24-hour relay: the 35-persons who took part ran more than 230 miles during the span, and the most difficult period "was between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m."

"The kids were waiting and watching for the sun to come up and it was getting rough," he said.

Medley had no problem with the organizational aspect of the meet, "everything went off according to plan."

And, over at Wayne Memorial, the annual Bill Elliott Memorial Scholarship recipient was named and the scholarship went to Mike Plungis, an All-Area gridder and cager.

Plungis recently signed a letter of intent to enroll at Eastern Michigan University.

Mike was chosen for the scholarship from a field of 15 applicants.

"We felt that Mike typified the kind of athlete-scholar deserving of such honor," said Bill Hawley, the school's AD. "Academically, Mike ranks near the top of his class and will graduate with an honors diploma. He plans a very ambitious academic program at EMU and someday hopes to enter law school."

Elliott was a popular coach and athletic director at the high school. He passed away 1½ years ago.

League hosts tourney

The Wayne Ford Civic League will host a women's softball tournament next month.

And tournament directors Joe Cooley and Frank Nance are seeking 16 teams to compete the field. There is a $60 entry fee which covers the cost of trophies and officiating.

The tournament will be played from May 13 through May 15 at the Civic League fields and will be determined by a 2-game elimination format.

Cooley can be reached by telephone at 721-4641. Further information also may be obtained by calling Nance at 721-3073.

BARRY BASEL
'Double jeopardy'

Despite victory over GC East

Glenn's track title is in jeopardy

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Though John Glenn didn't have any problems with Garden City East in their Northwest Suburban Conference track opener, Coach Barry Basel says his Rockets are in trouble "unless the field events come around."

Glenn launched the defense of its title with a 93-62 victory over East, sweeping 10 of 17 events. The win was Glenn's third in four starts this season.

"Running-wise we're doing all right," stressed Basel, "but our field events appear stalled right now and unless we can get moving there are a couple of teams out there — Livonia Franklin for one, that will take the title away from us."

Basel also pointed out that the Rockets' rule of the Western Wayne Invitational, (held Tuesday night at Belleville) could be ended by at least three teams — Wayne Memorial, Livonia Franklin and Churchill. Glenn has captured the coveted title for the past three years.

Ted Unold, one of the premier distance runners in the state, continued to play the role as the Glenn senior was clocked in 2:01.7 in winning the half-mile and coasted to a 4:26.5 finish to take the mile run. Glenn's Jeff Preston also was a double winner. He cleared 5 feet, 8 inches in the high jump and covered the high hurdles in 16.6.

The Westlanders will host Redford Township Thurston on Thursday for their next conference meet.

Franklin builds up title stock

Patriots overpower Thurston thinclads

Livonia Franklin built up its Northwest Suburban Conference track title stock with a one-sided 120 1/2 to 37 1/2 victory over Redford Township Thurston.

"We're coming along just fine," Coach Bob Holmes commended, "but Glenn still remains the team to beat in our league. We'll be getting our first look at them Tuesday night at the Belleville Relays."

The Livonians swept 15 out of a possible 16 events against Thurston as Phil Yuhaz, Don Boka and Glen George each counted double victories.

Yuhaz won the 100-yard dash in 10.6 and the 220-yard dash in 23.5, while Boka had a put of 47 feet and tossed the discus 142 feet for his pair of wins.

George ran a 9:52.2 to cross the finish line first for the 2-mile run, then came back to win the mile with a 4:40.3 performance to lead a Patriot sweep in the event.

Franklin will carry a perfect 2-0 conference and a 4-1 over-all record into Thursday's league meet against North Farmington. The Livonians will host the meet scheduled for 4 p.m.

BOB HOLMES

'Blaz' is most improved

Keith Blazaitis, former All-Area cager from Livonia Franklin, was awarded the Most Improved Player Trophy at Saginaw Valley State this season.

Assistant Coach Mark Simons presented "Blaz" with the distinction he best exemplified to his teammates. Statistics alone bear witness to the tremendous improvement he made from one season to the next.

In the 1976-77 Blazaitis played in all 30 games sharing time with fellow junior Mark Klein. He led the team in field goals shooting percentage at 51.6, which ranked sixth in the state among college players.

Blaz scored 212 points this past season as compared to 108 a year ago and he hauled down as many rebounds.

Most important, the 6-11 junior developed into a mature experienced leader on and off the basketball floor.

Wayne sweeps 2 from Huron out single in the third. The only batter to reach base also was in that inning when the junior left-hander gave up a walk.

In the second game, Wayne trailed 3-0 going into the top of the seventh and with one-way in that inning, Tom Banner walked, Canfield then came through with a pinch-hit single and Grider's sacrifice fly drove in the first Wayne run.

With two-away, Jeff Tollison walled and Greg Green bounced an infield single, loading the bases. It was up to sophomore Mark Zerma who walked, forcing in the second run and pitcher Andre Boyd then uncorked a wild pitch that struck Smart, scoring the tying run.

Wayne settled the issue in the eighth when Greg Butler sacrificed Banner to second who got aboard on an error. Paz then hit a grounder which went through the shortstop's legs, scoring the winning run.

Bledsoe twirled a nine-hitter, struck out 10 and walked one as Wayne turned back Taylor Center on Friday 6-3. Paz belted a two-run triple in the second, driving home Don Johnson and Tim Clark.

Cherry Hill '9' puts brakes on skids

Exploding for four runs in the bottom of the fifth, Cherry Hill snapped a three-game Tri-River Conference baseball losing streak by edging Crestwood 4-2 on Friday.

"It was probably our best over-all game of the season," said Coach Ken Mientkiewicz whose Spartans face four league rivals this week. "In fact, the last two games we appear to be jelling."

Pitcher Mark Buck evened up his personal record to 2-2 as he scattered four Crestwood hits, struck out four and walked two. Crestwood got to Buck for two runs in the fourth to take the lead.

However, losing pitcher Derek Arzomanian walked Jack Slade to begin the fifth, then Jeff Bilek followed with a single,

Buck drilled a base hit, scoring the Spartans' first run and Tim Hoffer's sacrifice fly chased home Biley with the tying run.

Mark Lipinski came through with a single, scoring Buck with what proved to be the winning run and routed the Crestwood starter for the mound. Reliever Dennis Jones got the first man he faced, but gave up a run-scoring single to Mike Snyder.

Cherry Hill gave Taylor Kennedy a scare before falling 3-2 to the defending league champs. Two unearned runs in the bottom of the sixth led to Cherry Hill's downfall and pitcher Scott Dawson's third loss in four starts.

Kennedy took a 1-0 lead after three innings, but the Spartans came back and went ahead in the fifth as Bilek walked, was singled to second by Ron Sosnowski. Both runners scored when Rich Rimmel belted Ron Riley's fastball for a double.

Rimmel though was stranded on third as Riley settled down and struck out the next batter, then got a pop-out and a groundout to end the inning.

A walk in the bottom of the sixth, an error, a single and a throwing error paced the way for Kennedy's winning run.

Earlier in the week Garden City West rapped Spartan hurler Lipinski for 11 hits en route to a 11-1 victory. Terry Smith fanned nine and walked four and missed the shutout when Cherry Hill scored in the sixth on Hoffer's single and Lipinski's double.

McDougall leads Glenn past Garden City East track team

With sprinter Kathy McDougall accounting for two first places, Westland John Glenn trounced Garden City East 79-57 in a girls' track meet.

The victory boosted Glenn's record to 5-1 on the season and set up the Westlanders as the team to beat in the Northwest Suburban Conference.

Miss McDougall was clocked in the winning time of 11.9 for the 100-yard dash, and crossed the finish line in 27.7 for the 220-yard dash.

Against Edsel Ford earlier in the week, Miss McDougall carded a triplicate, sweeping the dashes and also winning the long jump with a leap of 15 feet, 11 1/2 inches.

Glenn turned back Edsel 77-57 in a nonleague meet.

4-hitter jolts Franklin, 5-1

Everything fell into place Friday for Coach Norm Hoenes and Westland John Glenn's baseball team.

Unfortunately, it was at the expense of Livonia Franklin, the defending Northwest Suburban Conference champ.

Backed by a superb four-hit pitching performance by senior righthander Brian Martin, Glenn humbled the champs 5-1 to even up its league record at 1-1.

"When we hit, we hit well," said

Hoenes who used superlatives to describe Martin's efforts on the mound. "I know this team can play ball, as they showed Friday, but we have had our problems getting our share of hits."

Glenn took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Franklin's starter, Al Casterdale gave up a double to Craig Walker, who was chased home by Mike Bednarski's base hit.

Casterdale worked the first three innings before giving way to Jeff Aguzzi who got in trouble in the fifth after Franklin had tied it up. Franklin scored on a single by Tom Hollandsworth, who advanced to second on an error, and scored when Aguzzi singled.

But Glenn routed Aguzzi in the bottom half of the fifth when the Rockets scored four times. That rally started as John Mervyn singled and moved up on Craig Duncan's base hit.

Dave Kay sacrificed, putting runners on second and third and Greg Linhoff's base hit drove home two runs. Brian Borke also singled. Bernarski singled home Linhoff and Borke, chasing Aguzzi from the mound. Calvin Beer took over for the Patriots and struck out the side in the sixth.

Glenn will know a little more about itself this week as it is scheduled to play a pair of conference doubleheaders. The Westlanders will meet Thurston on Friday after clashing with Garden City East on Wednesday.

Wayne gets scare from TC

Wayne Memorial's plans for a Great Lakes 8 Conference track championship in 1977 were nearly put to rest by a determined Taylor Center which gave the Zebras a run for their money last Thursday.

With one league defeat tagged to their record by Monroe, Wayne can't afford another, and Coach Ernie Righetti's thinclads escaped Taylor Center by winning the final event, the mile relay.

The five decisive points gave Wayne a narrow 68-62 triumph over Taylor.

"I just don't think we were mentally prepared for Taylor Center," said Righetti whose minions are now 2-1 in conference competition. "In this league you just can't afford a letdown on any given week."

Righetti picked out Steve Grissom, Tim Dean, Roy Reges and Ron Mason for that final event and the foursome responded in 3:33.1, sixteenth of a second faster than their counterparts.

Meanwhile, senior Brett Hansen continued to shine as he picked up three first places. Hansen turned in a 14.1 for the high hurdles and that time is considered as among the best - if not the best - recorded into the state this season.

Brett also won the long jump with a leap of 19 feet, 11 inches and placed first in the 220-yard dash with a 23.2 effort.

Before hosting its third annual Wayne Memorial Invitational, Wayne clashes with Wyandotte on Thursday for its next league meet. The Zebras will travel to Wyandotte for the scheduled 4 p.m. confrontation.

West to test Cherry Hill's title rights in Tri-River

Undeclared Cherry Hill, speeding toward an unprecedented fourth consecutive Tri-River Conference track and field championship, clashes with Garden City West on Thursday.

And the clash will tell if the Spartans can win it all again, according to Coach Joe Grasley.

"I feel that Garden City West is the team to beat this year," Grasley pointed out, "and our meet with them will tell us a lot about our chances to retain the title."

"If we can come away with a victory over West, we'll be in great shape," Grasley added.

Cherry Hill found little opposition to its title rights last Thursday against Dearborn Heights Riverside. The Spartans cleaned up 125-31½, taking 13 of 16 first places.

The victory provided the Spartans with a 3-0 league and 5-0 over-all record.

Meet results: Cherry Hill 125½, Riverside 31½

Two key league victories give Churchill early lead

If there were any doubts in anyone's mind about Churchill Coach Rog Frayer's contention that his Chargers will be in the midst of the Western Six Conference title race, they should be put to rest.

Churchill launched the 1977 conference season with an impressive 4-2 victory over Waterford Mott and also turned back Northville 3-2 to take the early lead in the league last week.

Churchill staked winning pitcher Jeff Morris to four runs early in the game with Mott and Morris managed to hold off the Waterford contingent which scored two in the fifth.

Morris, who appears to have won the No. 2 slot in Frayer's pitching. Morris, who appears to have won the No. 2 slot in Frayer's pitching rotation, threw a five-hitter, struck out eight and walked one. The junior right-hander is now 2-0 on the season.

Churchill put one run on the scoreboard in the second inning as Mike Devlin and Bill Bardwell latched on to singles, then, with one-away, Marty Abraham walked and Jeff Lajoie's sacrifice fly brought home the first run.

The Chargers iced it with a 3-run third as Mark Galasso was safe on a two-base error, Devlin was struck by a wild pitch and Bardwell walked, loading the bases.

Chris Clegg's hard-hit single to right drove in one run and, with bases still loaded, Abraham, with two-strikes on him, was also hit by a wild pitch, forcing in the second run in that inning. Lajoie, also with two strikes on him, made it to first when the Mott hurler uncorked four consecutive balls.

Bardwell twirled a seven-hitter, struck out nine and walked one in Churchill's 3-2 triumph over Northville. The Chargers picked up two runs in the first inning as Marc Galasso singled to center to open the game, Dave Colley also singled, putting Chargers on first and second.

Bill Coyle then hit to short who committed a throwing error, scoring the first run. Devlin's sacrifice fly to left chased home the second run.

What proved to be the winning run was placed on the board in the third after Devlin had singled, moved to second on Bardwell's single and when Bardwell's hit was bobbled by the outfielder, Devlin raced home.

Wayne gals looking good in track

If Wayne Memorial continues to improve, Coach Doug Tompkins feels his girls will be ready for the Great Lakes' Conference track championship.

The Wayne girls' track coach came to that conclusion Thursday when the Zebras trampled Walled Lake Central and Northville in a triangular meet. The victory evened up Wayne's over-all record to 3-3 on the year.

"We looked good," Tompkins said, "but we need to improve if we are to beat Monroe and figure in on the championship. By the time the league holds the championships, we'll be ready."

Wayne garnered 78½ points while Central picked up 40½ and Northville had 26 in the nonleague meeting.

AUTO FACTS

By Chester Kosin

One option that is usually available only for station wagons is the deflector vane. This roof accessory comes either alone or as part of a luggage rack. Mounted at the rear of the roof, it deflects the slipstream away from the tailgate window as it flows along the floorline, and prevents exhaust fumes, dust and dirt from being sucked into the window, if open. It also wards off any accumulations of mud and salt. Some deflectors are built right into the roof of station wagons.

Select quality accessories for your station wagon or other model car from the huge inventory at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster! We are known as the "House of a Million Parts" and specialize in all types of parts and accessories for both foreign and domestic cars. Our experienced staff is always happy to help do-it-yourselfers select the parts and tools they need for the jobs they want to do. (If the job is too complicated, visit our local service station or mechanic for professional help.) KOSIN'S also offers complete machine shop repair service. Call us at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M. AUTO TIP:

Tinted glass is usually ordered as part of an air-conditioning package, and cuts out some of the sun's hot rays.

Brand Loyalties Shaken By Taste Impact Of Low Tar Merit.

MERIT taste delivery switching high tar smokers away from age-old favorites.

There is a taste alternative to high tar cigarettes.

Modern technology created it.

Tests proved it.

Smokers are confirming it.

Today most MERIT smokers are coming from high tar cigarettes — many from brands they had been loyal to for years.

Yet they're switching to — and sticking with — MERIT.

The reason is a real advance in tobacco technology that resulted in a way to boost natural tobacco flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

© Philip Morris Inc. 1977

Kings: 8 mg. "tar," 0.5 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Dec. '76 100's: 12 mg. "tar," 0.9 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

It's called 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT and MERIT 100's were both packed with this special tobacco. And taste-tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

And you can taste it.

SPRING LAWN & GARDEN TIME

How To: Plant cuttings from your favorite rose bushes

If you'd love to have more roses in your garden and home, but don't dare buy any more because of the expense, don't despair because you can reproduce your own. It's easy to reproduce favorite plants, especially old and shrub roses, according to the new Ortho book, "All About Roses."

The Ortho book explains that the easiest method is probably one of the best.

First, make six to eight inch cuttings when the bloom has faded. Remove the flower along with a few inches of the top stem, leaving only one or two leaves at the top, and pull off the lower leaves, being particularly careful not to damage the buds.

Dip the bottom end into a root hormone stimulant to speed up root development.

Set the cuttings into a pot of damp growing medium composed of sand (or perlite) and peat moss (or vermiculite) in equal parts. The cuttings should be immersed to one-half their own length.

In the same pot, insert two tall stakes, on both sides, to support a plastic bag. Seal the bag at the top to create a greenhouse-like climate, and place the little greenhouse—pot and all—in a bright location away from direct sunlight.

When new growth begins, usually in about five to eight weeks, remove the bag.

Finally, transplant each cutting to the pot, planter or its own place in the garden, but make sure it will get partial shade for at least a couple of weeks.

As the Ortho book explains, there's more than one way to grow a rose. For the more ambitious, the book has instructions on such fancy techniques as grafting and cross-pollination.

Make six- to eight-inch cuttings; pull off lower leaves.

Set cuttings into damp soil mixture.

Seal in a plastic bag until new shoots appear—in about five to eight weeks.

Transplant to a pot or planter, or its own place in your rose garden.

Chilly nights can ruin crops

Back in the 15th and 16th centuries, the New World produced exciting food discoveries for the Old World, but none took so long to be appreciated as the tomato.

Tomatoes were used for centuries in South America and Mexico, and are recorded as being cultivated in France, Spain and Italy as early as 1544. However, the red vegetable was grown only as a curiosity in England as late as the mid-17th century.

In America, pioneering frontiersmen were not as courageous as they might have been. Only the bravest souls ventured to eat the mysterious "fruit." Little by little though, the fame of these juicy new treats increased, and by 1835 the versatile vegetable started achieving recognition.

The tomato has come a long way, and today we enjoy it in all sorts of ways in all shapes and sizes. And so long as you give them tender loving care and good soil, tomatoes are easy to grow, according to the new Ortho book, "All About Tomatoes."

However, if your tomato gardening has not been "fruitful," there may be something askew.

When you find all plant and no fruit, your first reaction is to wonder, "What did I do wrong?" But, as the Ortho book explains, the fault may not be in something you did, but what the weather did to you.

When growing tomatoes, a very important point to consider is the temperature. Tomatoes will only set fruit in a very narrow temperature range, and as strange as it seems, the night temperature is more important than the day.

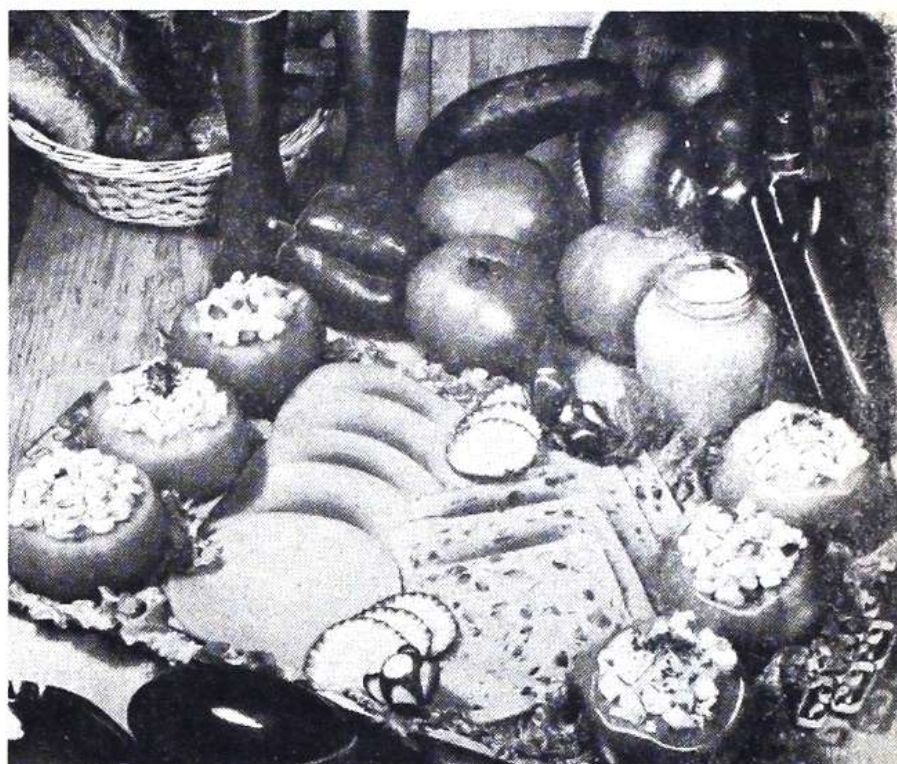

One of the most frequent causes of blossom drop, for example, is planting the tomatoes out in the garden while the nights are still too cold. If you set the plants out before there are a few hours of darkness with temperatures above 55 degrees, the plant will just sit there and sulk. To get a maximum harvest, night temperatures should be in the 60 to 70 degree range.

On the other hand, night time temperatures which are too high — above 75 degrees — will also stop the tomatoes from forming.

And, if there is a spell of very hot weather during the day — in the 90s — the plants may also suffer from a blossom drop with no yields.

What can you do about all this? It's easy; either plant your tomatoes in a controlled environment, or at a time of the year when you can be "seasonably" sure of the weather. Another good idea is to check with a local garden shop, your county extension agent, or a good book like "All About Tomatoes."

TOMATOES ARE EASY TO GROW, as long as you avoid the typical tomato mistakes, according to the new Ortho book, "All About Tomatoes." And, they will taste even better when you know you've grown them yourself, like these "fresh from the garden to the table" tomatoes stuffed with corn relish and onion vinaigrette.

Tomato Grower: avoid these common errors

Tomatoes can be the most rewarding crop in your garden if you know what you're doing. And, all you need to do for good results is to follow a few simple rules.

Tomatoes can more than pay for themselves in high yields from a small amount of space. But, they are not completely infallible and there are certain needs that must be fulfilled, according to the new Ortho book, "All About Tomatoes."

Some folks just plop the plants in the ground and they flourish and produce all season. Chances are, though, that they do fill the tomato requirements, whether they realize it or not.

The first mistake people make is to try to grow tomatoes in a shady location. Tomatoes need sunshine. They need at least 6 hours of direct sunlight every day.

Better still, plant them where they will receive 8 hours of direct sun. The best ones are grown in spots that receive sun all day.

If you find that the only spot you have in full sun is where you grow your choice flowers, mix in a few tomato plants. Stake them neatly and they will blend in beautifully — and give you pounds and pounds of fruit from just three or four plants.

The next mistake often made by beginners is to plant out in the garden too early. Tomatoes are best started indoors and the plants put out, rather than starting them from seed outdoors.

Plants should not be set out until all danger of frost or even close-to-freezing temperatures has passed, and the exact time for planting out depends on the area where you live.

Planting time is important because if the tomatoes are set out too early, they will just stand still and not grow until the weather warms. In the meantime, the plants would be subject to diseases and rot, as well as physical damage from the wind.

Actually, in many instances, it is the wind that is more damaging to a young tomato than cold weather. This is especially true if the plants are too tall and spindly soft.

A short, stocky tomato plant will often fare much better than a tall one that has not been hardened a little so it can accept outdoor temperatures.

If you're not sure of exactly when to plant or which varieties will do best in your area, check with your local garden shop, or a good book, like Ortho's "All About Tomatoes."

Careful selection of the varieties you grow is important. There are two things to consider: disease resistance and the adaptability to your climate.

After the name of many varieties you will see certain letters, such as VF and VFN.

These letters indicate that the variety has been bred to be resistant to the common tomato "spoilers" verticillium (V), fusarium (F) and nematodes (N).

These problems will affect both plants and fruit. The tomatoes wither and die with little or no other signs of trouble, so be on the safe side and plant the kinds that will not fall prey to the "spoilers" under most circumstances.

Follow the easy rules, and you'll be rewarded with handsome, healthy and tasty tomatoes — and they'll taste even better, knowing you've grown them yourself.

IT'S EASY TO PREPARE some exciting new treats with an old favorite, tomatoes, as long as you know what to do, and which recipes to follow, according to the new Ortho book, "All About Tomatoes."

Terrific twists on cooking with the world's old favorite

Tomato tips

Want some new ideas on how to cook with an old favorite?

Almost everyone who prepares food uses tomatoes in salads, sandwiches, and spaghetti sauce, but for those who wish to be a bit more daring, there are hundreds of ways to combine the rich flavor and lively color of juicy tomatoes with other foods, according to the new Ortho book, "All About Tomatoes."

Some of the most exciting recipes, for example, are those in which you combine tomatoes with other hearty ingredients in stews, like the Italian version of "Tomato Fish Stew."

This mouth-watering delight will whet the appetites of friends and family with its "secret ingredient" of white wine instead of the expected red, to add a tasty surprise to your taste buds.

Only a loaf of French bread, a salad, and perhaps some more wine, is needed to complete this particularly satisfying and robust meal that takes only 45 minutes to prepare.

TOMATO FISH STEW

6 slices bacon, diced
¾ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic minced

¾ cup bias cut celery
¼ cup diced green pepper
2 cups peeled and chopped tomatoes
1 cup tomato sauce
1 cup water
3 potatoes, peeled and cut into large chunks
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon basil
1 bay leaf
1 pound halibut fillets
½ pound fillet of sole ½ pound red snapper
¼ pound codfish
¼ pound shrimp, raw and peeled
1 cup white wine
Parsley for garnish

1. Fry bacon in large saucepan until limp.
2. Add vegetables, except potatoes, and cook until translucent.
3. Add tomatoes, tomato sauce, water, potatoes, and seasonings.
4. Cover and cook about 20 minutes, or until potatoes are tender.
5. Cut fish into bite-size pieces and add to tomato mixture.
6. Cover and continue cooking 5-to-8 minutes, until fish is done. Remove bay leaf.
7. Add wine, sprinkle with chopped parsley garnish. Serves 6.

African Violets need 'Tender Loving Care'

Pity the poor Saintpaulia ionantha! More widely known as the African violet, it has earned an unfair reputation for being temperamental, ever since it was introduced as a house plant in the late 19th century.

In fact, African violets are no more difficult to grow than any other container plant. With just a little tender loving care, they will reward their owner with abundant blossoms year-round.

African violets are known to flower best in low intensity light, and should never be placed in direct sunlight. Windows with east or west exposures partly shaded by trees or large foliage plants are ideal, but if placed in a window facing south, the plants should be protected from sun by a sheer curtain.

African violets will also thrive under artificial light.

Caring for African violets has been made all the more simple with the recent introduction of plant foods made especially for these exquisite plants, such as Ortho's African Violet Food 6-9-5. It is a timed-release fertilizer which contains a balanced formula of nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, and eight other nutrients that healthy African violets require.

Under normal growing conditions, the fertilizer need be applied only once every four to six months.

Another essential for superior African violets is to make sure that the water is always room temperature, or just a little warmer.

Cold water is particularly harmful to the plants and will reduce the bloom of the magnificent African violets.

In addition, if you water your "beauties from Africa" from the top, make sure to avoid getting water in the crown because this may encourage rotting.

OREGANO does well in containers or gardens; it will grow up to 2½ feet high. It needs good, well-drained garden soil, full sun, and plenty of water.

Start it from seed indoors or divide an established plant. If you grow it in a container, replace it every two or three years when the plant becomes woody.

along the shape of the leaf to make the cut look as natural as possible.

BIRDS eating your young garden plants? Try covering them with fly screening. Make frames to fit whatever crops you're growing; when the plants reach a height of six inches or so, the birds lose interest in them. Then you can store the frames to use on next year's seedlings.

GOOD GROOMING: One simple technique that you should know, which will make house plants look their colorful best, is to take a pair of household scissors and cut off any brown edges. Just cut

Make a terrarium out of almost anything

"Terrarium, or not terrarium," that is the question. The answer is that a terrarium can be planted in almost anything you want, like a French storage jar, a Victorian conservatory, or the redwood octagon pictured.

Easy to make

Terrariums are especially rewarding, explains the Ortho book, "House Plants Indoors-Outdoors," because they're so easy to create and make exquisite personal displays anywhere in your home. All you need to know are a few basics.

First, you need a suitable container. Let your imagination run wild and find something really unique. Since most containers which are unique and decorative don't have drainage holes, you'll have to provide the drainage yourself, which is also quite simple to do.

Drainage

Line the bottom of the container with a half-inch of charcoal chips — which can be found wherever plant supplies are sold. Next, add a minimum of one inch of planting soil. It's easiest to use a commercially prepared medium labeled "for terrarium plantings," though any good soil will do. Soilless mixtures are also fine for miniature landscapes.

Depending on the depth of your container, you can add more than an inch if you want, but that's the minimum.

Recycled

STORAGE JAR from the kitchen converts to a house for small plants. The Ortho book, "House Plants Indoors-Outdoors," explains how to make a terrarium.

Mini-hills

There are a number of ways you can arrange the soil for decorative purposes as well; you can leave the landscape flat, or, for something more daring, you might create hills and rolling mountains by shaping the earth with your hands.

Planting

When arranging the plants, keep the taller ones in the back if the terrarium is to be viewed from the front. If you miniature landscape is to be seen from all sides, the taller plants should go in the middle.

It's also a good idea to plan your arrangement in advance because too much moving around can tear the roots. Also keep in mind that you shouldn't place the plants too close together because the roots must have room to grow.

Old-timer

VICTORIAN conservatory makes a handsome terrarium — just as it did 100 years ago.

OCTAGONAL TERRARIUM of redwood and glass makes a dandy showcase for plants. Pictured around it are other "recycled" containers. With terrariums, anything goes!

The best plants for a miniature enclosure are those that naturally grow and stay small. Next best are varieties that grow slowly, although they will eventually outgrow a mini-landscape. However, that may be an advantage, since you can constantly change your mini-scene, so it never gets boring to you.

For specific plants which will suit your needs, check with your local garden shop, or a good book on the subject, like Ortho's "House Plants Indoors-Outdoors."

Final touches

After your plants are all in place, gently pack down the soil, and water the container well. You may wish to add little touches to make your mini-environment more realistic. For example, if a woodland scene is your theme, put in some small pieces of decayed wood to resemble logs. You can also add a little pond or stream. There is no limit to what you can create.

Be creative!

Let your imagination be your guide to your own personal display, which will give you many happy hours making it — and showing it off.

Terrariums need water from time to time, and routine maintenance to remove spent growth and trim fast-growing plants.

It's a good idea to remove the top from a closed terrarium occasionally for ventilation.

Light requirements will vary, according to the kinds of plants you use.

Strawberries in containers can produce abundant fruit

How would you like a plant that makes a lovely decoration, is easy to grow, will fit any space you have available — and tastes great? You'd love it? Well, believe it or not, this marvelous "do-it-all wonder" is the strawberry plant.

Strawberries are without question the easiest small fruit to work into any space, according to the new Ortho book, "All About Growing Fruits and Berries," and they can produce an abundant crop even in containers.

You can use whatever kind of container suits you, in various shapes and sizes, in a number of materials, hanging or standing.

WONDER PLANT! It's easy to grow in containers or gardens, looks lovely, tastes great — it's the strawberry.

For maximum production, though, the container should be large enough to nourish a root system that's at least eight inches wide and eight inches deep. If the root system is restricted in a pot that's too small, crop production will be reduced because reduction of any part of the root system affects the entire plant.

You may find, for example, that the production of one plant with adequate root space is as much as two crowded plants.

An ideal strawberry for containers — especially if you don't want runners — is the European wild strawberry, or fraise des bois. This plant, not too easy to find, won't produce runners, and grows in a clump, so a container planting stays put, instead of trying to invade the living room.

If you do have a garden area with some land available, strawberries are also great in the great outdoors. They can be planted in rows or hills, according to the Ortho book. If you have room for only a few plants, hills are your best bet; on the other hand, if you have the space for extensive plantings, rows are for you.

Hills should be about 12 inches apart each way, with one plant in each hill. Rows should be at least 30 inches apart, with the plants placed about 12 inches apart within the rows.

No matter whether you're growing strawberries in containers or in the garden, the soil you plant them in should be fairly rich with the addition of organic matter and should drain well.

The depth of the plant is also very important. If you set the plants too high in the soil, the top part of the roots will dry out; and if you set the crown of the plant below the surface of the soil, it will rot — hence the warning, "set the crown of the plant at ground level." The new leaf bud in the center of each plant should sit exactly level with the soil surface.

One of the only disadvantages about the stupendous strawberry plant is that the flavor and yields are not exactly predictable — you have to be careful in what you do and not rely on luck. Strawberries will vary from year to year depending on spring growing conditions.

Also, the best variety for one particular location may not do as well in another site.

For help in deciding which variety is best for your area, check your local garden supplier or nursery. A good nurseryman is a big help, since he keeps abreast of all developments in plant breeding. Your County Agricultural Agent can also be a great help.

For another reference on exactly what to do, and why, check with a good book on the subject, like Ortho's "All About Growing Fruits and Berries."

You'll find growing strawberries extremely exciting and rewarding — and well worth the "fruits" of your labor.

Welcome to the wonderful world of wok cooking

The backbone of the Oriental culinary art — cooking with a wok — is bringing new joy to an increasing number of home-styled gourmet chefs. And, vegetables are the favored dishes because they can be served fresh, piping hot and crisp.

Stir-frying is the "secret ingredient" to the vegetables' fresh, crisp and colorful appearance, and this Oriental style can become a natural cooking skill once you learn the way with a wok.

For those unfamiliar with a wok, it's a deep, circular frying-type pan that's in the shape of a half moon. In stir-frying, the vegetables settle on the bottom of the pan and fry instantly; and this instant frying process allows the vegetables to hold in their natural juices and to retain their vivid color and crisp taste.

A basic technique for stir-frying vegetables is suggested in the new Ortho book, "Adventures in Oriental Cooking," and the following tips will be helpful to beginners:

1. Always cook in a very hot wok. The way to do this is to first heat the empty wok, add salad oil and heat to sizzling.

Swirl the oil around until the wok's cooking surface is thoroughly coated. Then, add the vegetables in order of their cooking time.

2. Assemble vegetables, seasonings, and gravy mix in advance. Stir-frying is so fast that once you get started, you won't have time for slicing or sear-ching.

3. Cut all vegetables for one dish in the same shape and size — wedges with wedges, cubes with cubes, shreds with shreds. This ensures that the vegetables will cook in the same amount of time, and will give an attractive appearance to the finished dish.

4. Stir-fry vegetables individually when combining those with different cooking times. Firm vegetables, like broccoli, for example, may take five minutes to cook and need a little water to become tender.

Bean sprouts, on the other hand, release their own juices and will cook in one minute. Cook the firmest vegetables first, then remove them from the wok and add the most tender ones last.

When you're finished cooking, combine and toss them all before serving.

5. Don't overcrowd the wok, because overcrowding will reduce the heat, and you'll wind up with limp, stewed vegetables instead of crisp, stir-fried ones.

6. Limit your combination of stir-fried vegetables to three or four varieties, and plan for a color contrast.

Best vegetables for stir-frying recommended by the Ortho book, include asparagus, bean sprouts, broccoli, string beans, carrots, cauliflower and celery.

Eggplant, mushrooms, onions, peppers, spinach and zucchini are also good choices.

Once you learn the way with a wok, your vegetables will look more appealing and taste better. And none of your family will say "Sayonara" before eating them.

THE ORIENTAL STYLE of cooking with a wok is bringing joy to vegetable cooks and vegetable eaters across the country. You can also go one step further and grow your own Oriental vegetables like Chinese Cabbage, edible pea pods, white radish, bitter melon, etc. The new Ortho book "Oriental Cooking," gives all you need to know on how to select, grow and prepare Oriental vegetables.

Proper Storage Makes Serving Safer

Proper food storage is of particular concern with summer picnics coming up. Both storage of food prior to use to insure serving in its optimum condition, as well as safekeeping of those left-overs, are concerns we all have. Fresh foods present the main problem. Remember that fresh food is ideally intended for immediate use, though a food may keep under refrigeration for several days, unless otherwise noted. Refrigeration means a temperature under 40° F which retards the gradual deterioration that occurs in food.

Logically, any food products from a store's meat or dairy case could go into your refrigerator and frozen foods should go into your freezer.

For unopened packaged foods, you're generally safe in following the store's display method. Items in jars or cans can usually be kept on a shelf.

Once a can or jar has been opened, it's wise to refrigerate it. Transferring the contents of an opened can to a jar with a lid can eliminate problems resulting from the effect of air on the metal of the can. Whether you use the original jar or transfer it, remember it must be airtight for proper storage and preservation of the product.

Souper Sealer—the freshness revealer

Souper Sealer—the answer to proper home storage—keeps those picnic pleasers garden fresh. These attractive containers, offered at Chatham this week, give you an excellent value

- comparable in quality to other brands
- guaranteed by Good Housekeeping at a cost that will enhance that food value stored within. The air-tight lid closure keeps food the way it was meant to be...the crispy foods crunchy, dry food free of moisture and those moist foods succulent.

Don't wait 'til summer is here to get ready for that picnic. Anytime of the year is good to review proper food storage techniques. Keeping hot foods hot and cold foods cold is your best protection.
